MILLS IN CINCINNATI.

He Has Never Received Such a Welcome as He Got Last Night.

Cincinnati, Oct. 6.—Hon. Roger Q. Mills, and Hon. T. C. Crane, of New York city, addressed an immense democratic mass meeting at Music hall last night.

Mr. Mills spoke last, and devoted his argumentative powers to a discussion of low tariff in general and the McKinley tariff in particular. He concluded with an exposition of the sacredness of the right to vote and of the wickedness of prostituting this trust to vent personal spite, and then made a strong appeal to vote for Campbell for governor, through all of which he was uproariously applauded.

At the close he was complimented with prolonged cheers, the great audience rising and shouting.

STARTLING DISCOVERY.

Kit of Burglar Tools Found in Holcomb's Bank.

The Vault Partially Penetrated and Everything Ready to Rob—Powder and Dynamite in Large Quantities.

The workmen employed in tearing down the vault in Holcomb's bank, corner of Monroe and St. Clair streets, made a startling discovery this morning.

A complete kit of burglar's tools was found on top of the vault, and the vault itself had been penetrated so that a blow of a hammer could burst it in. The kit consisted of about 35 pieces, including jimmies, wrenches, firmers, wedges, wooden mallet, fuse, two cans of dynamite, and four cans of powder.

Entrance, it appears upon investigation, was made through the floor of Wheeler's opera house, which rests partially on the top of the vault.

Mr. Richard Hattersly, the contractor, who discovered the kit, made a thorough investigation, and he said to a Bee that the floor of the opera house had evidently been cut through and an entrance to the top of the vault had been secured in this manner.

The tools are all of the most approved pattern and design and of the best material. They have from their rusty appearance, laid there for considerable time, perhaps two or three years.

The kit was removed from the vault and placed on the floor of the bank, and it was viewed by hundreds this forenoon.

Mr. Holcomb, himself, was not the least surprised at the discovery. Speaking with a Bee he said there was no way to account for the presence of the tools except in the manner indicated by the workmen.

Mr. Geo. W. Davis was an interested spectator. He, too, was of the opinion that the entrance had been effected from the floor of Wheeler's.

The plan was an admirable one, and needed but an hour's work to make it complete.

Part of the arch of the vault had been removed, and the vault itself had been cut into to the depth of about 14 inches. Only four inches more and the vault would be reached. Indeed a small hole had been cut clean through.

"It needed but a light stroke of the hammer," said Mr. Hattersly in explaining the matter to a Bee, to knock in the remaining brick."

The theory among the police is that the would-be burglars had in some manner been scared away before completing their work. It was an easy matter to obtain entrance into the opera house, and a gang could work there unmolested and unseen for weeks at a time.

The discovery has been the sole topic of discussion in banking circles and among business men to-day, and Mr. Holcomb is being congratulated on his narrow escape and good luck.

BURGLARS AT WORK.

Hillsdale, Mich., Oct. 6.—(Special)—Our people are considerably excited over a series of burglaries perpetrated here lately. During the fair last week the homes of several farmers near town were entered in the day time and ransacked.

Last night the variety store near the college, owned by W. M. Dyke was burglarized of a quantity of goods and the contents of the till, some $10 or $15. The officers are at work on the case.

TERRIBLE GALES.

London, Oct. 6.—Terrific gales prevail in the Irish sea, and three wrecks have already occurred.

The Birth of Another Heir Causes Fresh Comment.

The Prince Ridiculed by the Leading Journals.

The Lydia Miller Sensation Will Not Down.

Australia Has Risen to the Proud Distinction of a Naval Power—The Coming Socialist Congress—Foreign Mention.

London, Oct. 6.—The birth of a grandchild to the queen has given rise to a crop of the usual comments on the abundance of royal descendants. The radical newspapers generally give the little one a cold welcome.

The Pall Mall Gazette prints a list of forty grandchildren of Queen Victoria, and points out that there is comfort in the reflection that the succession is safe.

This seems to be the only comfort the taxpayers extract from the situation. This baby will, however, be no additional burden, for the present, to the British treasury. Battenberg and the Princess Beatrice already have a liberal allowance from Parliament, and Beatrice besides, has the privilege of living on Queen Victoria's bounty, as she accompanies the queen everywhere.

Battenberg, who is looked on as a mere appendage of the household, has been called the most unhappy man in Great Britian; but the assertion cannot be true, as, ever since he married Beatrice he has had enough to eat, whereas in Germany he was in very precarious circumstances.

The Star is even worse than the Pall Mall Gazette. It explains that whatever the dangers that may threaten the state, there is no danger of failure of the succession, thanks to the German quiverful. The Star closes with "God save Battenberg."

Lydia Miller's Suicide.

Much feeling has been excited by the alleged attempt to hush up the facts connected with the suicide of the Gaiety actress, Lydia Miller, who killed herself after the failure of Lord Charles Wm. Augustus Montague to meet her according to appointment.

Lord Charles is a brother of the duke of Manchester, and an officer of Yeomanry cavalry. He has reached the mature age of 31 without having become settled in his habits, and he is a favored companion of the duke of Clarence and Avondale, heir to the throne after the prince of Wales.

Among the rumors afloat is that Prince Albert Victor and other aristocrats had been friends of the Miller girl, and had not treated her rightly.

These rumors are met by the fact that the father of the girl is in good position and has engaged a solicitor of standing, who will not be likely to respect or protect the reputation of any one who has wronged Miss Miller, who, there seems to be no doubt, was thoroughly infatuated with Montague.

Gas Explosion in Berlin.

A fearful accident is reported from Berlin. A number of workmen were engaged in repairing gas pipe at No. 2 Markgarfen strasse, when, owing to the careless handling of a light, a fearful explosion occurred, and six of the workmen were killed. The explosion wrecked the house, and also set it on fire, and several persons were injured, besides the workmen who were killed.

Australia a Naval Power.

Advices from Australia state that the people are overjoyed by the arrival of the auxiliary Austrian squadron, of the British navy. The squadron is practically an Australian fleet, consisting of three cruisers and one gunboat, with native Australian names.

It raises Australia to the rank of a naval power, with a fleet which is without a rival in Polynesia, and puts her in a position to meet any marine enemy likely to arise in that quarter. Every colony is anxious to welcome the squadron, which will doubtless make a round of all the leading ports

Socialist Congress.

A dispatch from Berlin says that the coming socialist congress at Erfurt will, in all probability, be even more conservative than that of Halle. The socialists are becoming more reconciled as a party, to constitutional agitation, while the more inflammable members of the party are relegated to the rear, watched alike by their fellow socialists and the police.

BOLD WORDS FROM BRICE.

He Denies the Stories About Gov. Campbell.

The Latter Never Speculated to His Knowledge and Does Not Owe Him a Dollar.

New York, Oct. 6.—Seantor Calvin S. Brice made a downright denial yesterday of statements concerning him and Gov. Campbell which have recenly been published.

Nearly all the statements are made upon the authority of one Ralph W. Wilkinson, who is called "a prominent Ohio politician and democrat."

In the interview Wilkinson says that Gov. Campbell is $500,000 in debt, and declares that the governor lost the money in stock gambling.

He also declares that Mr. Campbell owes Mr. Brice $100,000.

Mr. Brice says he never knew a man of the name of Wilkinson, and emphatically denies that Gov. Campbell owes him money.

He says the governor never speculated to his knowledge. 'Had he done so he believes he would have heard of it.

POOR MARKSMEN.

Plattsburg, N. Y., Oct. 6.—The old McMaster farm house and outbuildings were burned to the ground last evening. Loss $6,000. The fire was caused by some would-be sportsman who fired at a squirrel, missed it, and struck the barn, setting fire to the hay therein.

HALFORD ILL.

Washington, Oct. 6.—Private Secretary Halford was taken suddenly ill at 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon while sitting at his desk in the white house. Several doctors were hastily summoned.

DEMOCRATIC MEETING.

Columbus, O., Oct. 6.—Chairman Neal has issued a call for a meeting of the democratic state executive committee for to-morrow. The purpose of the meeting is not known, except for the transaction of committee business.

ONE HUNDRED AND ELEVENTH

Annual Reunion Being Held at Perrysburg To-day.

The members of the veteran regiment, One Hundred and Eleventh Ohio, are today enjoying their annual reunion at Perrysburg. Gen. Sherwood came up from Canton to attend, and he reinforced the Toledo contingent which left this morning.

The One Hundred and Eleventh was one of the fighting regiments in the late war. It was organized September 5 and 6, 1862, in Toledo, and was musetered out of service June 27, 1865. A record of participating in 24 hard-fought battles is credited to the regiment. The late John R. Bond was its first colonel. Gen. Sherwood was appointed first lieutenant and adjutant September 6, 1862, and was promoted to major in 1863, to the lieutenant-colonelcy in January, 1864, and to the colonelcy in September. He was brevetted brigadier-general February 27, 1865, and mustered out in June.

W. S. Thurston, another Toledoan, was promoted from first sergeant to captain of Company D. Capt. M. J. Enright was also a member of the regiment.

JUDGE ZIMMERMAN.

Governor Campbell Appoints a Successor to Judge Dickinson.

Columbus, Oct. 6.—Gov. Campbell has appointed Joseph Zimmerman, of Fremont to be probate judge of Sandusky county to fill the vacancy caused by the death of E. F. Dickinson. The appointment is until his successor shall have been elected and qualified.

WILL INVESTIGATE.

Columbus, Oct. 6.—Railroad Commissioner Norton is making a thorough investigation of the cause of the accident near Kent on the N. Y., P. & O. railroad on Sept. 30 by which four persons were killed. Inspector M. J. McInarna telegraphs as follows: "I find the accident was caused by the conductor and engineer of third section 85 in not taking notice of the signals on fifth section of No. 4. They assumed that the fifth section was the last one and pulled out of Ravenna after the train passed which followed the fifth section and met the section about one mile east of Kent.

EMMETT'S WILL.

New York, Oct. 6.—The will of Comedian J. K. Emmett was filed for probate yesterday. It names his son, Joseph Kline Emmett, sole executor. The entire estate is bequeathed to the son and the son's wife, Daisy Way Emmett, or their survivors. The comedian and his wife separated long before his death, and he settled a large sum upon her at the time.

DISSOLVED PARTNERSHIP.

Wauseon, Oct. 6.—(Special)—The firm of Schwartz & Dudley, grocers, was dissolved yesterday, Chas. Dudley retiring.

The invoice shows them to be a solid firm, nearly $6,000 worth of goods being on their shelves.

WILL CONTEST THE WILL.

San Francisco, Oct. 6.—Charles Fair objects to the wording of his mother's will, and it is stated that he will contest the same. The bulk of the immense fortune was left to the daughters.

RUNAWAY AT A FUNERAL.

One Person Killed and Others Injured.

A Frightened Animal Rushes Down the Line and Demolishes Half a Dozen Vehicles.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 6.—A series of frightful accidents occurred in a funeral procession at Altoona in which one man was killed outright, four other persons fatally injured and a score of people bruised and fractured.

While the procession of 40 carriages was winding down a hill a team in the rear became frightened at a steam threshing machine and started to run.

The road was narrow and the runaway horse ran into and upset a dozen of carriages in front of them, breaking six of them into splinters and scattering the occupants broadcast. A panic ensued as the others teams ran away. Men and women jumped out of the carriages only to be trampled by the runaway teams.

When quiet was restored it was found that Edwin Drestel of Altoona was killed, Joseph Perdue, a telegraph operator from Grinnell, internally injured and cannot live; Mrs. Jo Mason, aged 70 years, leg broken in two places and otherwise injured, not expected to live; Mr. F. S. Sayre, skull fractured, cannot live till morning; Mrs. B. C. Lane of Newton, so badly frightened that there is believed to be no chance for recovery. Among others badly injured were Mrs. James Parker and Mrs. Isaac Parker, both of Altoona. Fully twenty others were more or less injured.

A FIGHT ON GOULD.

Missouri Pacific People are Angry.

They Will All Join Hands and Remove the Wall Street Wizard From the Presidency.

New York, Oct. 6.—The Times this morning says that a rumor prevails in Wall street that some Missouri Pacific stockholders are dissatisfied with Mr. Gould's management of that road, and that efforts are under way to organize a concerted movement on the part of stockholders to depose Mr. Gould from the presidency and get control of the property.

Mr. Gould himself said recently at a meeting that he did not own a majority of the stock in the road, and that if the stockholders became dissatisfied they could put him from control. Mr. Gould's methods in regard to the recent dividend which caused the stock to fall 20 per cent., are said to have caused the disgruntlement.

Another rumor prevailed on the street yesterday that Samuel Sloan was so disgusted with Mr. Gould's methods that he proposed to withdraw from the directories of the several corporations that Mr. Gould controls. Mr. Sloan maintains a grim silence as to his intentions.

CHARLES OF WURTEMBURG.

He Died at Stuttgard Early This Morning.

He Had Been Ill for Sometime and His Death Did Not Cause Unusual Excitement.

Stuttgart, Oct. 6.—King Karl I. of Wurtemburg is dead. The death of the kig occurred at 7 o'clock this morning. He had been ill for some time past, and yesterday his condition became so critical that extreme unction was administered to him.

Charles I. (Charles Frederick Alexander), king of Wurtemburg, eldest son of the late King William I., was born March 6, 1823, and succeeded to the throne June 25, 1864. He followed the policy of his father on the Schleswig-Holstein question, and formed one of the minor states party in the diet. His majesty, on July 13, 1846, married the grand duchess of Olga-Nicolajewna, daughter of Nicholas I., late czar of Russia.

KEEPING UP THE FIGHT.

Republicans Bound to Kill the Ballot Law.

An Amended Petition Filed at Columbus.

Every Effort Will be Made to Destroy the Secret Ballot so That Republicans Can Intimidate Their Employes.

Columbus, Oct. 6.—Another move was made in the republican attack on the Australian ballot law yesterday afternoon.

Judge J. H. Thompson, adopting new tactics to get his case, intended to nullify the law in the supreme court. While Judge Thompson is ostensibly the prime mover in this matter it is pretty definitely settled that his course is directed by the master minds among the republican managers.

This time he comes in with a motion for leave to file a petition in mandamus against Attorney General Watson, seeking thereby to compel the legal officers of the state to test the constitutionality of the law.

In his motion he makes several requests: First, that the attorney general be ordered to institute a suit against the Franklin county board of elections, inquiring what right that body has to proceed under the new ballot law; second, that if the court sees fit the suit may be brought in the name of Thompson instead of Attorney General Watson; third, that peremptory writ be issued against the attorney general, and fourth, that if the court thinks any of these requests unwarranted it shall prescribe some other means of testing the law.

In his petition the points upon which he bases the claim that the law is unconstitutional are set forth at great length, making a voluminous document, the most essential features being summarized as follows:

It is in conflict with the constitution in that it prevents each citizen from exercising the right to vote a simple single ticket; that it imposes needless burdens upon the populace; that it is unconstitutional because it confers rights other than judical authority upon the probate judge in the power to appoint election boards when the appointment of members of such boards is dictated by political committees.

A lenghty written address to the court accompanies the petition in which the republican with a grievance against the secret and honest ballot law claims it conflicts with section 1 of amended article xiv of the constitution of the United States, which provides as follows: "All persons born or naturalized in the United States and subject to the jurisdiction thereof are citizens of the United States and the state wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of the citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty or property without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws."

WASHED HIM OVERBOARD.

A Tidal Wave Struck the Steamer Lepanto.

The Chief Officer and a Seaman Carried Over the Rail to Death by the Angry Waters.

Boston, Oct. 6.—Capt. H. J. J. Wise, of the steamship Lepanto, the Wilson liner, which left New York September 6 with a general cargo for Antwerp, writes the Boston Herald that on the afternoon of September 7, when 220 miles from Sandy Hook, the ship encountered a heavy squall during which what seemed to be a tidal wave swept the deck, carrying away Chief Officer G. W. Yates and a seaman named John Radcliffe, aged 25, a native of Biddeford, North Devon.

Mr. Yates had been chief officer of the Lepanto for nearly three years. He was also a sub-lieutenant in the royal naval reserve. He was 30 years of age, unmarried.

Considerable damage was done by the big wave to the deck fittings of the ship, but, the storm abating, her bilges were pumped dry and she was brought into the English channel on September 19.

OMAN ROBBERS ON TRIAL.

Findlay, Oct. 6.—The fifth trial of those charged with the famous Oman robbery began here yesterday in the common pleas court with Jerome Kibler in the prisoner's chair. The previous trials were those of Charles Morgan, Sherman Decker and John Coleman, the first having had two trials and each time being found guilty. Decker was also found guilty, while Coleman was acquitted. There are five others of the gang yet to be tried this term of court. There is nothing new in the way of testimony thus far and but little change from the evidence in former trials is expected.

BLAINE STOCK IS LOW,

And Another Reciprocity Scheme is Started.

Germany Is Now on the List for Closer Trade Relations With the United States.

New York, Oct. 6.—A special to the World from Washington says negotiations are said to be in progress for free trade relations between the United States and Germany.

The removal of the pork embargo by Germany is said to have influenced the president to reciprocate in some way.

JONES BARS HIMSELF OUT.

New York, Oct. 6.—Lieut. Gov. Jones has issued a card in which he says: "If successful in this election nothing can defeat Mr. Flower as a presidential candidate in 1892, which would place the national government as completely under control of Tammany hall as the city of New York now is, and this would make Mr. Sheehan governor. Those who desire this consummation of events should sustain party, 'right or wrong,' and those who do not should at least pause and think."

THE LITTLE ROVER

Plymouth, Mass., Oct. 6.—The yawl boat Little Rover, with Harris Trubenback and Robert Van Valkenbergh, which left Rockaway beach, N. Y., for Boston, September 6, arrived at Manomet on Saturday at 5:30 p. m., and left at 2 p. m. on Sunday for Boston. The boys are well and expect to reach Boston to-morrow.

BACK TO THE SEAL ISLANDS.

Washington, Oct. 6.—Orders were telegraphed from the treasury department for the revenue cutter Rush, now at San Francisco, to return at once to the seal islands, and to remain there until the first of December.

ELOPEMENT AT LIMA.

A Pretty Girl Runs Away With a Married Man.

Lima, Oct. 6.—A profound sensation has been created here by an elopement of a married man with a young woman which took place a week ago but which was not discovered until to-day.

The parties connected in the elopement are Miss Pearl Correll and Arthur Limebach. Limebach has not been living with his wife for some time, he having a suit for divorce pending. Miss Pearl is a charming brunette about 18 years of age, while Limebach is several years her senior.

Miss Correll was engaged to a prominent young man in Boston, Mass., and her wedding garments had all been prepared. It seems, however, that the young man did not want to hasten the wedding, and Miss Correll meeting Limebach became enamored of him and believing his story that he had been divorced, she consented to elope, and a week ago last Saturday night lowered her clothes from her chamber window while her parents were asleep and had them secreted. Monday she told her mother that she was going to Columbus to visit her grandmother, but instead met Limebach and eloped. It is thought they headed for California, as Limebach told several friends some time ago that he was going there. Limebach is a tailor and came here several years ago from Delphos.

C. F. Brown, Miss Pearl's stepfather, has offered a reward for Limebach's arrest and will punish him if captured.

THE EARTH IS CAVING IN.

Great Sensation in Carbondale, Pennsylvania.

Two Hundred Acres Has Been Undermined.

The Surface Rolls as Under the Influence of an Earthquake and People are Awaiting the Final Crash.

Carbondale, Pa., Oct. 6.—Nearly 200 acres of ground in the northwest corner of this city, under which Coal Brook colliery of the Delaware & Hudson company is tunnelled, are in a state of turbulence, and there is danger of one of the most extensive cave ins in the history of the coal regions. The 200 mine-workers have been ordered out and the company is awaiting results. The ground is heaving like a constant earthquake. From the inside the noise of the working, which at first was indistinct and did not presage any very serious trouble has become loud and the sounds reverberate through the mine so that they are continuous and deafening.

PRETTY, BUT A FRAUD.

A Woman Who Lives by Swindling.

She Has a Smooth Tongue and Uses It on All Occasions to Beat Her Way Through the World.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 6.—Mrs. Kate F. Dee, a very handsome and refined looking woman, was arrested a week ago for trying to pass a forged check on Sister Benedicta, at City hospital.

When arrested she promptly admitted her guilt, but told such an ingenious story of misfortune that she readily enlisted sympathy, which has since then been constantly growing in her behalf.

She told in detail how in the bloom of youth she had married her first cousin against her parents' wishes; how they lived happily until four children died, driving her husband to an insane asylum and herself to a nursery.

She also told how she thought that Mrs. Bresce, whose name she forged to the check, was a rich woman whom she had nursed and whom she thought would be willing to make the loan.

Her charming manners, splendid conversational powers and apparent disingenuousness gained ready credence for her story, until the arrival of Thomas Selby, of the Selby house, Washington, who tells another story of the woman, which stamps her as a most remarkable adventuress, from whom he accepted two checks—one for $80 and the other for $100.

Mr. Selby says the woman stopped at his hotel for six weeks and owes him for just so many week's board for herself and her 9-year old son, Willie. Soon after her arrival there Mrs. Dee informed Mr. Selby that her sister had died in London and that the body had been brought to New York, from where it would be taken to Rock Creek cemetery in Washington for burial.

She told him that she had engaged an undertaker and had made arrangements at the cemetery for the interment of the remains.

Mr. Selby investigated, and, finding that the story, so far as the burial arrangements were concerned, was true, took the rest for granted.

Occasionally she would send her little Willie to the cemetery and he would return with the information that the work in the cemetery was progressing.

A few days later Mrs. Dee told Mr. Selby that her brother-in-law had become insane and had gone off with a $1,500 ring belonging to her. She gave her maiden name as Fitzgerald, and on leaving the hotel she gave Mr. Selby the two checks, for $80 and $100 respectively, on Woods Brothers' bank. The checks were signed by D. H. Fitzgerald, her brother, who, she said, was stopping at the Clarendon hotel.

Finding that no such person as Fitzgerald had an account at that bank, Selby inquired at the Clarendon and learned that they knew of no such person. That was the last he heard of Mrs. Dee until he read of her arrest here, when he came over to identify her.

Mr. Selby says Mrs. Dee is a consummate swindler, who is wanted also in New York, Buffalo and Rochester.

The Fighting Parson From Colorado.

Adventures While Preaching to the Miners.

A Much Respected Man, He Did Much Good, Although He Traveled, as It Were, on the Wages of Sin.

Denver, Oct. 6.—Among the recently returned European tourists whose homes are in the far west, none, perhaps, have more interesting histories than Parson "Tom" Uzzell, of Denver, who has charge of a mission located in a great building known as the People's tabernacle, which is situated in one of the low quarters of this city.

Parson Uzzel having acted as chaplain during several sessions of the state legislature, has been somewhat more intimately associated with politicians than clergymen usually are, and his trip to Europe this summer was an indirect and happy result of that acquaintance.

Both political parties told him in turn last fall that if their side won he should have a trip to Europe. Both parties forgot it when the fight was over, and the parson's chances for foreign travel seemed very slim until a number of his friends set earnestly about fulfilling the broken promise.

Now the particular friends in question were none other than the outgrowth of that early Leadville civilization, the gamblers and sporting fraternity generally, whom Parson Tom had befriended in many a dark and weary hour. These people resented hotly the insult which they fancied had been put upon him by the politicians and hurriedly raised $1,500, which they presented to him on the express condition that he would utilize it in a trip to Europe in company with a number of other "sky pilots," as they called them, who had arranged to sail on a certain date.

On the Wages of Sin.

Parson Tom went, enjoyed the trip heartily and came back encouraged and invigorated. It is rather a unique reflection that this godly man went abroad on the wages of sin.

Parson Uzzel was the first preacher who had courage enough to set up the tent of the Lord in Leadville, where by far the greater part of the community was given up to that which the good book terms "works of the devil."

The camp smiled when Tom arrived and pre-empted a claim for a church, but its smile broadened when the parson took off his coat and soundly thrashed a squatter for endeavoring to jump it, thereby gaining for himself the sobriquet of "the "fighting parson."

An incident characteristic with frontier life is connected with the erection of this house of worship. When it became known that the parson intended to build one, "Pap" Wyman, owner of one of the most notorious gambling hells and variety theaters the west ever had, and commonly known as "the wickedest man on earth," had circulars printed and distributed among the gamblers, sports and courtesans, calling upon them to assemble in his theater Sunday afternoon.

Four or five hundred of the handsomest and toughest looking citizens of Leadville were there on the day named. "Pap" was a natural born orator. He took his place before his smoky oil footlights, and in one of the most eloquent addresses ever made in that city told his hearers of their sins, and that if they continued in their present course they would surely go to hell.

Tears were in many eyes and smiles upon the faces of others who took the proceedings as a huge burlesque. They changed their minds, however, when he announced that a "preacher" had come to Leadville, and he wanted every one within the sound of his voice to donate handsomely for the purpose of aiding in the erection of a church, which would probably be the only Christian act ever credited to them.

"Pap" then got down off the stage and passed his big white hat among the congregation, and when he had finished he had $8,000 in cash and promises, all of which were paid.

When Crime Was Rampant.

Those were the days of 1878 and 1879, when sin was running riot in Leadville, and when any other man's life than the parson's would have been in imminent danger had it been exposed as his was, but the very unsuspecting innocence of the preacher seemed to shield him.

The wickedest men in the camp gave liberally to his church, and if he could not habilitate their lives he soothed their dying pillows and breathed prayers for their parting souls.

Once there came a sad harvest of death; some pestilence had made its appearance in the camp, and the funerals at which Parson Uzzell officiated averaged as many as six a day.

At this time the parson rode through the streets flinging the power of his exhortation right and left. Men and women who were leading lives of the most desperate wickedness cowered before the thunder of his warning, wept and repented, and sinned again.

One memorable day a woman named Mollie May, who kept a notorious house known as the "Bon Ton," sent for Parson "Tom" to come and conduct funeral services over a baby born in the house.

The parson went, and the 50 disreputable women, all richly dressed in black silks purchased expressly for the occasion, followed him to his own little church.

Parson "Tom" rode down Harrison avenue, the main street in the town, seated between Mollie May and her chief ally, while the other women in carriages brought up the rear.

At another time the parson was summoned to go to a similar house, where a girl who had been shot through the arm by a cowboy was supposed to be dying. The cowboy had been indulging in the innocent diversion of shooting out the lights in the chandeliers. Her arm had to be amputated, but she did not die. She was converted under Parson Tom's ministration, and lived, he said, to become the honest, faithful wife of one of Colorado's millionaires.

"This was one of the very rare cases," he said, where I saw any practical returns for my work."

"Doc" Baggs' Wedding.

Parson Uzzell will go down to fame among sporting men as "the preacher who married "Doc" Baggs. "Doc" was the most notorious bunco steerer the west has ever known, and kept a place in Leadville from which even Parson "Tom's" soul shrank in horror. However, upon receiving the summons he went immediately to the notorious dive, where the rooms above the gambling house beamed with light and splendor, and the wedding guests in rich attire patiently awaited the coming of the clergyman.

The bride, whose character, it may well be supposed, was not of the best, was arrayed in the conventional bridal garb of the most luxurious quality, and "Doc" himself was faultlessly attired.

When Baggs had kissed his bride after the ceremony he slipped a $20 note into the parson's hand, which the latter says he clung to desperately, fearing that Baggs and his friends would "do" him for it before he got away.

Wasted Eloquence.

Parson Uzzell and one Dr. Gibbons had some interesting experiences in the way of lecturing on temperance in those days. A German who kept a famous beer garden at the corner of State and Pine streets, frequently transformed his garden into a hall and respectfully invited the parson and the doctor to lecture there.

"At such times," said Parson Tom, "Gus—that was the proprietor's name—would cover up the counter in a jiffy, and the lecture would go on with a considerable show of decency for a while, but before our words were cold beer would be selling again, and the click of the glasses invariably drove us out in the end."

Parson Uzzell also saw the rise of one of the famous Colorado millionaires. Judge Stansill, who afterward became immensely rich, was at one time begging his bread in Leadville. Stansill was a regular western "Coal Oil Johnny," one of the wildest characters Colorado has ever known.

Before he got his money Stansill swore that when it did come he would ride in state in a four-horse coach all the way from Leadville to Fairplay, a dream he lived to carry out, riding alone, and shouting in a drunken frenzy all the way.

Blew Past Him.

The Colorado zephyrs blew the golden dust of all that prolific young state's great fortunes right by Parson Uzzell, but none of it stuck to him, because he was not looking for that kind of gain.

The mellow tones of the bell which was suspended on the top of Parson Uzzell's church vibrated from the highest point occupied by any bell in the world. It was suspended on the day of dedication, July 4.

On the morning of that day the parson rang the bell for love feast, and its superb tones, so like those of the dear old church bells away back home in the states, brought tears to the eyes of many a man whose steps had long since wandered far from the fold.

An old miner who was prospecting dropped his pick and shovel, took off his hat and exclaimed when he heard its vibrant peal, "Well, I'm blest if Jesus Christ ain't come to town."

The bell was the gift of Capt. Cooper, a miner who had it brought from Boston to Denver, and from there freighted to Leadville.

TENNYSON IS GETTING OLD

And His Title as Poet Laureate Much Desired.

All London is Talking About His Successor.

The Queen and Salisbury Will Probably Not Consult the Wishes of the Literary World in the Matter.

London, Oct. 6.—Who will succeed Tennyson as laureate?

That is the question that is agitating all England, particularly literary London, at the present moment. Lord Tennyson is a very old man and very feeble, and in the natural order of things must soon go the way of all flesh.

Indeed, there has been some very serious talk here of the old poet's intention of resigning the office of laureate, since he himself has said that the labor of writing has become irksome to him.

However this may be, one thing is certain. The question of his successor is being actively and seriously debated and what is more, there are several candidates for his mantle already in the field.

Any one who watches the course of the discussion can but come to the conclusion that the whole affair is to use the expression of Stephen Blackpoole, "aw a muddle." As it stands the queen has a candidate, Lord Salisbury has a candidate, the literary world has a couple of candidates, but as it is the queen and the prime minister who have the naming of the laureate, the opinions of the literary world will not count for what they are really worth.

What of Swinburne?

"There is Swinburne!" the reader exclaims.

Yes, to be sure, there is Swinburne, but such are the conditions under which the laureateship is gained that his chances of getting it are much poorer than are those of much inferior poets. It is the custom of certain knowing English writers to sneer at Americans and allege that they can scarcely get a dinner ready without including politics in the bill of fare. However this may be, there is a good deal of politics about the appointment of a poet laureate of England. It is not the greatest poet who makes the most acceptable laureate. Indeed, if in the long list of poets laureate such names as Spenser, Dryden, Southey, Wordsworth and Tennyson occur, it is just as true that some of the poets laureate have been pretty mean specimens both as men and poets.

The queen and the prime minister, as has been said, have the naming of the poet laureate, so it will be seen that it depends a good deal on which party is in power. If Tennyson should outlive the present government, as he may, the results might be important to some English poets, for if Lord Salisbury should go to the country and return well spanked by the people, some of the candidates who are now very much in it, would be very much out of it, for the Grand Old Man would have none of them, even at the queen's behest.

The Queen's Candidate.

But who is the queen's candidate? you may ask. Well, he is a dear, sweet, harmless, respectable creature who rejoices in the name of Lewis Morris. He is no relative of William Morris, by the way, of whom you all have heard. William Morris is a genius and a poet. As [illegible] said of Lewis Morris. The latter person is a respectable gentleman, well along in the afternoon of life, who was a lawyer until he got tired of that unpoetical profession, when he retired to Wales took up the pursuits of a country gentleman, obtained a seat in the council of education for Wales and incidentally became a poet. From 1871 to 1875 he published the "Songs of Two Worlds," and in 1876 the "Epic of Hades." The queen thinks a great deal of these works; so much so, indeed, that she would like to see [illegible] any one else feels the same way is very improbable; certainly Lord Salisbury does not, as he is a very important personage in the matter just now.

Lord Salisbury has a candidate himself for Tennyson's shoes who is not at all dismayed because they are many sizes too large for him. The prime minister's candidate is Alfred Austin, who is not [illegible] a man as is the queen's favorite. In fact, without being a great poet, he writes some verses very cleverly. But he is too much inclined to be a political hack to satisfy the British public, and he is not at all a favorite. He is now something like 56 years old, and is a Roman Catholic. This fact might keep him from Lord Salisbury's favor were he not such a thorough paced political time-server to the conservative party. His works are better known, indeed, in America than here. In 1861 he issued a work called "The Seasons," in which he pitched into the world in great shape.

Then he wrote "Fors Horrors," which was remarkable chiefly for a considerable amount of indecent abuse of Gladstone; that probably pleased Lord Salisbury. Then he has written some acceptable album verses; he represented the Standard in the Franco-Prussian war, and latterly has published some "Lyreal Poems." He is a disciple of Wordsworth, and these latter poems are the best things that he has done.

William Morris.

As for the other genius, William Morris, he is amply fitted for the post of poet laureate, save that he is no timeserver. But it is not likely to get the position. He is rich, but he is an out and out socialist. John Burns, and Hyndman and Annie Besant are his friends, and his favorite song is of labor oppressed. He is a great poet, but a socialist; even if he is a great poet, a socialist is not wanted at Windsor castle. Who knows but that he might smother some of the royal babies?

It is somewhat interesting to look back over the list of the men who have been poets laureate and note what a poor lot the most of them were. In all the other countries poets laureate or "royal poets" were elected solely for merit. England has not followed that plan.

It isn't an impressive list, when you look it over. Take Dryden and Tennyson and perhaps Southey out of it and the rest are, in the main, a poor lot. It would look as if the real poets of England had been purposely kept out of it. You see in it no Shakespeare, no Milton, or Goldsmith, or Gray, or Pope, or Addison, or Byron. Not at all, and if Great Britain can do nothing in the way of poets laureate in the future than it has done in the past, it would not be a bad idea to go out of the business. Tennyson has shed lustre on the position, but when he dies mediocrity will be in the saddle again.

Indeed, there are not a few wise men over here who say that Tennyson, the greatest of poets laureate, will be the last one.

Speaking of Tennyson's predecessors and possible successor, I had the rare pleasure of seeing the old poet in London the other day—rare for the reason that as he grows older he seems to dislike the city more and more, and he never visits it except when some important business takes him there.

It was at the Athenaeum club. A group of men were chatting, when their attention was called to two men who were passing on the opposite side of Pall Mall.

One of these was a sturdy enough man, approaching middle age, but looking young indeed beside the man who walked arm and arm with him, for the latter was a veritable patriarch in appearance. He was, moreover, a man who would attract attention in any assemblage. His tall frame was bent with years and covered with a wondrously ill-fitting suit of some gray material. He wore a hat like, and yet unlike, the American slouch. His boots were wide and stout, almost coarse; his collar ill-fitting and his cravat carelessly arranged. But you forgot all about his dress when you looked at his face, so calm and strong: it was set off by a great shaggy head of white hair, and a beard such as the patriarchs were supposed to have worn.

"Picturesque looking old chap, that," one of the loungers in the club window remarked carelessly.

Another of the loungers, who had been watching the pair, turned and looked closely and curiously at the speaker.

"Perhaps," he said, with just a trifle of sarcasm in his voice, "you don't know who that picturesque old chap is."

"Haven't the slightest idea," the other one drawled.

"Well, that picturesque old chap, as you call him, is Alfred Tennyson, and that is his son Hallam with him. Take a good look at the laureate while you have a chance. He doesn't come often to London now, and at his age any of the trips may easily be his last one."

And the group did look at the old man with all their eyes until he slowly passed beyond their gaze, leaning on the arm of his son.

Close of a Vigorous Life.

The idlers in the window had witnessed a sight rare indeed in London, for it is only at long intervals that the poet laureate allows himself to be drawn within hearing of the noise and din of the great, overgrown city. All his life he has loved the hills and long, low downs, the sea and the solitude of the country far more than he has cared for towns. Indeed, it is doubtful if the old poet would give up his beautiful home at Haslemere, on the Isle of Wight, for the costliest palace London could offer him.

Besides, the poet is now a very old man. He is going on 83 years of age, and he has been writing poetry nearly seventy years. Not for five centuries has any English poet of renown lived to such an age. But one, indeed, has lived more than 80 years. That was William Wordsworth, Tennyson's immediate predecessor, in the laureateship. He lived 15 days beyond his 80th year. But Wordsworth at 80 was but the wreck of a man in mind and body. Tennyson, at 82, is still comparatively a vigorous old man. True, he does not sing with as full a throat as he once did, but that we may overlook.

He is living very quietly now. His wife is still with him, and spends much of her time in setting her husband's verses to music. And, indeed, those lyrics form the most interesting feature of London drawing room entertainments nowadays.

Meanwhile the glorious old man sits in his quiet study at Haslemere, surrounded by his books, his tobacco jar by his side, his beloved pipe near, where he can look out through his open window over glen and wood and hill to where the sea glistens silver-like in the distance. And, perchance, he may light his pipe and through the clouds of smoke see visions beyond our ken. So let us leave him, calmly living out the evening of his life. When it closes all England may well mourn, for it may be long before his like may again be seen.

ANOTHER BANK CLOSED.

Financial Unrest in the Coal Regions.

The Phillipsburg Concern, Run by Dill's Father-in-Law, Cannot Pay Its Depositors on Demand.

Phillipsburg, Pa., Oct. 6.—The Phillipsburg bank has closed its doors, announcing that on account of the continued demand from the depositors it was deemed best to suspend payment and go into liquidation.

The cashier stated that he firmly believed all deposits would be paid in full.

Phillipsburg is only a short distance from Clearfield and Houtzdale. Ever since the Clearfield bank closed and the Houtzdale bank failed, the Phillipsburg institution has experienced an unprecedented run. The miners and their friends first took alarm from reports from Houtzdale, and began an open onslaught on the local bank, gathering there in line and steadily drawing their deposits of $500 to $1,000 without a word of comment from either side.

The bank stood this pressure easily and paid out thousands within the last three banking days.

Then the heavy depositors took fright and began a quiet checking of their balances which resulted in the announcement to close.

The president of the bank is Jonathan Boynton, father-in-law of President Dill of the Clearfield and Houtzdale banks.

The effects of the suspension cannot now be estimated. Distrust is everywhere and confidence nowhere. This being the center of coal interests in the region, a great amount of cash is required and an unprecedented stringency is now reported on very side.

It is feared many private individuals and concerns will go down in the general crash that seems imminent here. The closing is only temporary. There is but little excitement now that the first fear has quieted down, and even the Hungarians and Slavs are quiet to-night, all awaiting the results of the present investigation into the affairs of the three banks now closed.

A Wonderful Result Achieved in Mr. Dull's Case—His Personal Statement.

"Truth is stranger than fiction." So runs the old saying, and no more appropriate illustration of the word could be asked than the facts given in the following sketch of an interesting personal experience related to the writer by Mr. N. R. Dull, a contracting carpenter, residing at 2215 Lorlie street, this city. Mr. Dull said:

MR. N. R. DULL, 2215 LORLIE STREET.

"A year ago last May I was lifting a very heavy beam, when I sprained myself. This caused an abscess to form, and together with a cold which I contracted brought on the harrowing symptoms from which I have been a constant sufferer.

"I took 'La Grippe,' and for seven weeks I laid in bed.

UNABLE TO MOVE.

"After recovering from this illness, should I attempt to stoop I would become so dizzy that I nearly fell. My nose would stop up with an accumulation of mucus. There was a constant dropping into the throat from the back part of the nostrils, which caused me to continually hawk and spit. My throat, chest and limbs ached and pained me. My appetite was very variable. The pains in my head, from which I suffered, were at times unbearable. They caused me constant misery.

"I had several hemorrhages, and this, together with the constant violent pains in my chest drove me to think I

HAD CONSUMPTION.

"After treating but a short time I have gained in flesh and strength. All my troublesome symptoms have disappeared. I feel like working; in fact I never felt better than I do now. I freely recommend Drs. Copeland and Buffet, and my friends can testify to the wonderful and rapid improvement which I have made."

Testimony of Reputable Citizens.

Mr. Joseph Coombs, watchman at the Toledo Blade building, residing at 384 Indiana avenue, says:

"I cannot say too much in praise of Drs. Copeland and Buffett, for they have certainly saved me from a fate worse than death, and let me say again, that, as a citizen and a gentleman, I deem it my sacred duty to have my statement made public for the sake of others who, perhaps at this time, suffer as I did but a short time ago."

J. S. Coombs
384 Indiana Av.

Mr. Eugene McCarthy, residing at 516 Knower street, a well-known member of the Toledo police force for the past six years, gives the following voluntary testimony. He said:

"I have been for a number of years past a constant sufferer from aggravated hay fever. I was obliged to quit work each year, so troublesome had my affection become. I had tried nearly everything, but to no avail. Since treating with Drs. Copeland and Buffett my trouble has rapidly grown better—so much so that this season is the first in five years that I was able to be constantly at work. They have made a remarkable change in my condition, and I most heartily indorse and recommend these gentlemen."

LOCAL THEATRICAL GOSSIP

Ole Olson Plays to a Big House and Catches On.

Some of Ben Henderson's Skits—The Gormans' Minstrels To-morrow Evening—Coming Attractions.

Ole Olson is something entirely new, and that is only one of its good points. The piece commenced a week's engagement at the People's last evening and seemed to strike a popular chord. It is a bright, clean comedy; nothing remarkably strong about it but with a plot running through it that commands the attention and is something on which to string the artistic bits of pathos and humor that are abundantly sprinkled throughout the piece.

The character of Ole Olson the Swede as interpreted by Ben Hendricks is perfect. His dialect and every movement is just what one would expect from a young man just over from Sweden trying to cope with a new language and customs. Ole gets there, however, and his gradual transformation into a genuine American citizen admirably worked out. Ben Hendricks long ago made a name as a clever comedian and in Ole Olson he is adding to his laurels.

Alice Evans, a bright little lady, appears as Genie Dimple. She is well known to the theater-going public as she was one of the hits of the Brass Monkey and the Texas Steer, Chas. Hoyt's comedies. That she can act, her work in the piece testifies, and her singing and dancing should be seen to be appreciated. Her songs are far above the average generally adopted by soubrettes, and the dance with Ole in the last act is a gem.

Miss St. George Hussey who plays Bridget O'Flannigan is another favorite with the company. Then there is the national Swedish lady quartet, Chas J. Slim, Frank E. Baker and plenty of other good people. Ole Olson will be at the People's the remainder of the week and deserves good houses.

Some of Ben Hendricks' Skits.

Ben Hendricks, the comedian of the Ole Olson company, relates some incidents that have occurred in his experience. He said the other night: "I was playing in a small town one night when a countryman walked up to me after the performance and said, 'Mr. Hendricks, I have a son who would make a great success in your business. He's the darndest fool I ever saw.' One night in Crestline, Iowa, I was standing near the box office, and at 8:30 not a soul had entered the theater. At last an old hayseed approached the box office and bought a ticket. I remarked rather sarcastically, 'The people in this town come rather late to the theater, don't they?' The old fellow replied, 'I reckon they do. I've been here 40 years and they haven't come yet.' A certain opera company which was on the road last season met with disaster at every turn. Whenever the manager could not liquidate the hotel bill he would request the proprietor to go with the company to the next city and collect it. He worked this scheme until he had fifteen or twenty hotel proprietors with him, and in order to kill time they were all singing bass in the chorus. Just before the company was about to play in Boston the manager telegraphed his advance agent to make no contract with any hotel until he found out whether the proprietor was a tenor, as he had all the bassos he required."

To-morrow Evening's Minstrels.

All the large cities indorse the entertainment presented by Gorman's minstrels. John, James and George Gorman are recognized the world over as three of the greatest minstrel producers. They know a good thing when they see it and are authors, composers and originators. They have gathered about them a clever company of minstrels and will appear at Wheeler's to-morrow evening. The performance will be a good one.

THE STRIKE OF TAILORS.

A Settlement Will Probably Be Effected To-Day.

The status of the strike of the journeymen tailors of the city remains unchanged, though it looks this afternoon as if a settlement would be arrived at and the men be at work to-morrow.

The meeting of the employers and some of the men last evening resulted in no definite action.

The strikers were in session all the forenoon revising the scale of charges, and the same will be presented to the employers by the special committee this afternoon.

Mr. Barfield, chairman of the Merchants' Executive committee, said to a Bee this afternoon that the merchants were willing to establish a suitable scale of wages if the union would grade its men.

"There are," he said, "perhaps twenty-five or thirty first-class tailors in the union, but these men are entitled to higher wages than a second or third class man. There are six or eight shops in the city paying wages almost equal to that demanded, but the smaller shops cannot and will not pay the higher price demanded."

There seems to be a disposition on the part of the men to make concessions, and it is not at all improbable that a settlement will be reached to-day.

M'KINLEY BLAMED.

The Tailors' Strike Caused by the Infamous Bill.

Merchant Tailors Say That Owing to the Advance in Prices Due to the McKinley Bill, They Cannot Pay Higher Wages.

The tailors' strike is still on.

And the bosses place the blame on McKinley's shoulders.

Statement of employers at the meeting last evening is to that effect.

The meeting of merchant tailors and the striking journeymen tailors in room 28 of the Law building was red hot, and the merchants threw a bomb that exploded with great effect.

It was no democratic job, either, but the frozen truth, wrung from the reluctant lips of good republicans.

The committee of the Tailors' union presented a revised schedule of prices about 10 per cent. lower than the demands of yesterday.

There was a great deal of talk and durign it a member of the striking committee was asked if he was not in the habit of "taking out" three and four pairs of trousers a day and giving them out again to women at reduced rates.

The merchants, however, were firm, and decided to stand together.

"Is there any reason why our demands, modified as they have been, cannot be granted?" asked a member of the srikers' committee.

It was then the bomb came forth from its hiding place.

"There are several reasons," said one of the merchants present. The principal is this: Owing to the advance of prices under the McKinley bill we cannot afford to pay higher wages. Since the McKinley bill went into effect the prices of trimmings and linings have advanced from 19 to 22 per cent., and the cost of woolen suitings from 12 to 15 per cent. There is not a gentleman in the room," proceeded the speaker, "who can deny these facts."

And there was not a single denial, although quite a number of good, dyed-in-the-wool republicans were present.

A gentleman who was present at the meeting was asked by a Bee what there was in it.

"It is a fact. The statement was made there and not denied. It is true, too, prices have advanced and where they have not then we get an inferior material. We do not get an advance but lose, and therefore cannot afford to pay the wages demanded."

The meeting adjourned without taking any definite action until to-day.

Murder will out, and by and by workingmen will realize the fact that the tariff is a tax on honest labor.

NULL AND VOID.

The Election of a Catholic Bishop in This Diocese.

The Irremovable Rectors Said Not to Have Complied With the Law and Their Votes Will Not Count.

A well-posted Catholic gentleman has placed the Bee in possession of what is claimed to be an important factor in the selection of a Catholic bishop in this diocese.

If the statement as given can be verified, and it seems to be the fact, then the selection of candidates by the irremovable Rectors of the diocese becomes null and void.

It is alleged that under the laws established at the council of Baltimore all such rectors must renew certain obligations to the bishop of the diocese the first part of January in each year. It is said that unless this is complied with rectors cannot vote, and are, in fact, not rectors at all.

The selection, therefore, of three candidates to be presented to Rome amounts to naught, and "confusion is worse confounded."

Anent this the following from the Catholic Knight of Cleveland will be interesting:

We are in a position to-day to give our readers the report of the reverend gentlemen who canvassed the vote taken by the clergy of the diocese for a successor to Bishop Gilmour. As will be seen only about one-half the priests of the diocese took the trouble to cast a vote.

The result may be the voice of the voters and it may not be what they would say, were Rome to ask for their votes. The result will confirm the opinion of those who charged that the whole matter was gotten up in the interests of a certain priest and a certain clique whose headquarters are in this city.

Here is the vote:

Dignissimus—Rev. T. F. Mahar, D. D., of Akron.

Dignior—Very Rev. Mgr. T. P. Thorpe.

Dignus—Rev. E. Mears, of Youngstown.

The result will be watched with much interest by the Catholics of the diocese.

KILLED HIS WIFE.

Morris, Ill., Oct. 6.—Near Wauponsea Station, 10 miles from here yesterday, W. L. Barrett, a Chicago bookkeeper, shot and killed his wife, who had separated from him, and then set fire to the residence and attempted to drown himself in a small stream. Failing in this he sent a bullet through his body, but the wound is not fatal and the murderer may be lynched. The fire was extinguished by the neighbors.

CAPTURED BY DEMOCRATS.

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 6.—Most of the town offices were captured by the democrats yesterday. The democrats elect the town clerk, the first selectman and a majority of the board of selectmen. The republicans elect their treasurer and registrar. The election was a very quiet one and the voting was generally light.

SOME SPICY CURRENT TOPICS

Of Local and Neighborhood Interest.

Notes and Comments on Incidents Occurring Daily—Prepared for Readers Who are Hustled for Time.

THE SAME OLD STORY.

Yesterday afternoon Edward Orwick, a saloonkeeper of Arlington, Hancock county, had a hearing before United States Commissioner Beckham on the old, old charge of selling liquor without a license. He was bound over in his own recognizance to the December term of the United States district court.

THE GENARD CASE.

A motion for a new trial in the Genard case in police court today was overruled, and he was sentenced to pay a fine of $35 and costs and to serve 10 days in the workhouse.

A motion to file a bill of exceptions was made, and the execution of the sentence was suspended for 30 days to allow his attorney to file bill before the court of common pleas.

WILL RUN SUNDAYS ONLY.

The steamer C. B. Wallace, which has been running all season between this city and Perrysburg, will not make any more week day runs this season, but will run on Sunday as long as the weather will permit, leaving the foot of Monroe street at 10 a. m. and 2:30 p. m. The steamer will leave Perrysburg at 12:30 and 4 p. m. Captain Lange reports a good season, and says that for next year he will put in a larger wheel, making the boat considerably faster, and he will also have her fitted out in better condition.

THE MARTIN LUTHER CHURCH.

This East Side congregation is in a very prosperous condition, and is showing renewed energy under the pastorate of Rev. E. L. T. Engers. By the fair lately held they realized some $1,500, and most of this sum will be used in paying for the commodious parsonage the society is now putting up on Nevada street, one block from Sixth. The vacant lot, corner of Sixth and Nevada, is held for a church edifice, and the society hopes to break ground for the building before the snow flies. Mr. Engers preaches in German and English, alternate Sundays.

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE.

Through the carelessness of a gas fitter, an explosion occurred this morning that might have caused the destruction of the southeast corner of Monroe and St. Clair streets. A tap was left open for about 30 minutes while a stove in Scott's harness shop, at 114 St. Clair street, was being set. When the fire was lit and a test for leaks made an explosion which shook the entire building, occurred.

The floor of the shop was badly damaged, and fire started in a hallway, which called out the department. The fire was soon extinguished, with but little loss.

PEOPLE'S PARTY CORONER.

At the meeting of the people's party committee and those interested the Lucas county ticket was completed by the nomination of Dr. John Gardner for coroner. It is felt that the popularity and good record of Dr. Gardner adds to the strength of the ticket, with which all interested are very well satisfied. To-day a number of people's party advocates have gone down to Seneca county to hear Congressman Jerry Simpson orate. He speaks in Bloomville this afternoon and in Tiffin this evening. There will be a mass meeting of the supporters of this ticket in Walbridge hall Thursday evening this week, and every following Thursday until election. A glee club and good speakers will furnish the attractions, and everybody interested is invited to attend any of the meetings.

FRANK W. SMITH AT AIR LINE JUNCTION.

Last evening Evangelist F. W. Smith opened a series of special "Bible Readings and Practical Talks" in the Baptist chapel. The services will be continued all the week, including next Sabbath morning and evening. Services will commence at 7:30 with service of song, lasting fifteen minutes, and close promptly at 8:45. Everybody in the neighborhood will receive a hearty welcome. Railroad men who can only remain for a few moments are cordially invited to drop in and enjoy as much of the service as they can and not interfere with their duties. Mr. Smith needs no introduction to any of the railroad friends who were here from 1878 to 1883, as they will remember his work upon the middle grounds and in the hospital and everywhere else where he could help railroad men.

FUNERAL OF J. W. KNAGGS.

The funeral of Mr. J. W. Knaggs, whose sudden death in this city last week caused such universal regret, was largely attended yesterday. It took place at Waterville. Mr. Knaggs was born at Miami, April 24, 1836, and was known as one of the best farmers in the county. His father, in the early 40's, bought for $3,000 80 acres of land, the center of which was the corner of Ashland avenue and Collingwood avenue. Six months later he sold the tract for $36,000. The family has quite a history. The grandfather of the deceased was Indian agent at Detroit in 1812, and secured a government grant for 160 acres of land at Miami. Dr. W. W. Jones, of this city, a few years ago secured a portion of the property, and the title came direct from the government, there being but one occupant between 1812 and 1878. The deceased was a brother of Mrs. W. W. Jones, and a man universally respected for his upright, manly disposition. He was among the oldest of the native born on the Maumee.

THE LAST SAD RITES.

Yesterday afternoon the last words for the dead and of kind sympathy for the living were said and the poor burned body of Mrs. Lillie Warner was laid away for its long rest and sleep. There are pathetic features connected with the tragic death of this faithful mother and teacher, that touch a tender chord in the breast, not only of friends and acquaintances, but of strangers even; for the world of humanity are brothers and sisters when such disaster and sorrow comes to those in their midst.

A classmate of Mrs. Warner in the Toledo High School said of her, she was a silent, uncomplaining, heroic worker, for many years, always hopeful, always cheerful. The last time she was at the teachers' meeting she was quite radiant with satisfaction at the prospect—with the help of her eldest daughter, who had been given a place in the schools, of soon being out of debt and ready to take a little rest of mind and body. Her husband died some years ago of an illness that extended into years, the burden and expense of which left the bereaved wife and little children in close circumstances, and the struggle had been a hard one.

It is pleasant to record that the teachers, with a little outside assistance voluntarily given, asked to be allowed to pay the funeral expenses as a token of love and respect for the dead and of sympathy for the orphaned family.

REST AND HEALTH TO MOTHER AND CHILD.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used for over fifty years by millions of mothers for their children while teething, with perfect success. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Sold by druggists in every part of the world. ## ALIENS LEAVING.

To Get Out of the Way of the Immigrant Inspector.

Immigrant Inspector Ryan has lately been looking up the matter of aliens employed about the harbor, and his work has borne good fruits. Every summer there comes to Toledo from Canada a number of men who work on steamboats, tugs and about the docks and the river. These men leave their families in Canada and return to them when the season of navigation closes. This is in violation of the contract labor law and a number of the outsiders have lately skipped town to avoid being sent back. Inspector Ryan is after those who are still here and they will have to go too. There will be a different order of things next season.

NEW BRICK COMPANY

Organized in Toledo Yesterday—Yards in Operation.

What will be known as the Kokler Brick company was organized in Toledo yesterday with a capital stock of $25,000.

The directors and officers are: President, Robert Cummings; secretary, Frank Gorman; treasurer, M. J. Malone; directors, William Malone and James Gorman.

It was decided to make prices the same as that of other brickyards of the city.

The yards have been located on South street and will be in full blast this week. The men connected with the company are the best guarantee that it will be a gilt-edged success.

BRANCH OF THE C. K. OF O.

Organized Last Evening in the Immaculate Conception Parish.

Last evening a branch of the Catholic Knights of Ohio was organized in the Immaculate Conception parish. Fifty names were enrolled, and it is believed the charter will close with a membership of one hundred.

Arrangements are being made for the organization of five other branches. The new organization proposes to pay $1,000 and $2,000 at the death of a member and limit the membership to Ohio. There are about 2,500 members of the old order in this state, and at the death rate in the old order Ohio would not pay to exceed 18 or 20 assessments annually.

IN TRADING CIRCLES

Both at Our Home and Abroad.

Wheat Quotations for the Day—Price Current for Produce and Other Articles.

London Wheat market steady, firmly held; corn steadily held. Weather wet. Liverpool wheat quiet, quotations half to one pence lower than Saturday. Corn quiet.

Receipts of wheat at seven principal western points to-day are 1,207,774 bu compared with 543,639 bu on the same day last year.

The imports into the United Kingdom for the week were 3,552,000 bu of wheat and 221,000 bbls of flour, equal to 4,546,000 bu of wheat, and 976,000 bu of corn.

The quantity of flour and wheat on ocean passage increased last week 288,000 bus, being 512,000 bus increase to the U. K., and a decrease to the Continent of 224,000 bu. Corn increased 176,000 bu.

Our table herein of available wheat and corn shows an increase of 1,181,519 bu wheat, and a decrease of 835,575 bu corn.

The stock of wheat in private elevators in Chicago is 760,000 bu; in Minneapolis 1,028,000 bu.

Chicago lake freights October 5.—The freight rate by lake on corn for Buffalo dropped to 1 3-4c to-day. This is a reduction of 1-2c since Saturday.

The correspondent of the Chicago Bulletin at San Francisco writes as follows: "Stocks of wheat have almost reached a maximum. The crop has threshed out below expectations—do not think it will exceed 34,000,000 bushels."

The Chicago table of the visible supply of wheat yesterday was 140,000 bushels more than that of New York.

English Quotations Again.

Bradstreet's of Oct. 3, prints our article of Sept. 23 concerning what we think is an unintelligible method of quoting the wheat market of Liverpool, England, and also concerning the wide discrepancies in some of those quotations which we also believe are unjustifiable and misleading. Bradstreet's referred our article to a distinguished and thoroughly informed authority for comments. The letter in response is too long for this circular, but we hope to touch some of its salient points. With great respect for the author we have failed to learn anything new from it.

Three reasons are given why California wheat quotations per 100 pounds are higher than those of red winter. We do not challenge them, but they do not touch our point at all. These conditions have existed for years, and the quotation for those years have fairly represented them, and that fact emphasizes the pertinency of our inquiry of why, on a better crop of winter wheat than last year, or other years, the comparative value of our winter wheat should have been lowered all at once, by about 7c per bu. That is the point our New York friend overlooks, and perhaps he wanted to overlook it; but the west wants to know, you know. Out in the wild and woolly west it is boldly stated that the seaboard wants to have it so, so that the value of our better wheat shall be depressed by fictitious quotations abroad and the seaboard reap the advantage by purchasing it and mixing and shipping it. The superiority of western No. 2 wheat over this mixture is acknowledged by Bradstreet's correspondent. We repeat, the main points of our article are not touched.

The quotation of winter wheat at about 11c bu. under what is called No. 2 Spring is, in this day of information, simply a monstrous error. What is this spring wheat? If it is some other grade, say so. If the winter is seaboard and stumptail, say so. The west wants to know the whence and the whither, and wants her quality of wheat fairly represented in English quotations, and proposes to fight it out on this line until she gets it. That is about what is the matter. In July Kansas Hard Wheat was quoted above California, and in no American market is it quotable at No. 2 winter price. It is time we got more inteligible reports for our money.

The receipts of wheat to-day at seven principal western points are 664,105 bus in excess of the corresponding Tuesday in 1890.

The export clearances yesterday at four Atlantic ports were 147,937 bus of wheat and rather light in flour. Exports of corn, 98,694 bus.

English markets as reported herein are better in London and dull in Liverpool.

Later cables quote stronger markets abroad with buying orders.

The exports were very light, and receipts of winter wheat light. There was nothing to stimulate the market, particularly, except that New York reported 38 cars of wheat sold for export, against the fact that Liverpool bogus quotations are too low to admit of such export purchases without loss. The markets for wheat opened a shade higher and continued to advance.

Corn has been weak until 12 o'clock, when there was more life in the market.

Towards the close the markets became weaker again, and much of the advance was lost.

Closing cables represent firm markets abroad.

In New York October and December wheat closed at a gain of 1-2c. October corn lost 1-4 and November 5-8.

In Chicago December wheat gained 1-2 and October corn lost 5-8.

In Toledo there has been more activity in the market for wheat futures to-day, and prices have improved. There does not seem visible, any good reason for the advance to-day, but prices at one time were 1 1-4c up on December, closing at a gain of 5-8. On the call December sold at $1.01 1-8 and May at $1.07 3-8.

After the call October sold at 98 1-2c, and closed at 98 3-4c, a gain of 1-2c. December sold at $1.01 1-4@1.02 1-4, and closed at $1.01 5-8, a gain af 5-8c. May sold at $1.08 1-4, and closed at $1.07 7-8, a gain of 5-8c.

Cash wheat was very quiet, and not much offered or sold. No. 2 soft at 98 1-2c, and at close 98 3-4c was the price, a gain of 1-2c. No. 3 sold at 96 1-2. No. 4 soft at 90 1-2c. Rejected No. 1 at 84c. No. 2 white at 95 1-2c. No. 2 hard at 93c. No. 3 hard at 88c.

Corn—No. 2 at 57c. No. 3 at 55c. No. 2 yellow at 58c.

Oats—No. 2 sellers at 30c.

Rye—1-2c better. No. 2 at 88c. October at 88c. On the call October sold at 88c.

SENSATIONAL SUIT

Entered in the Common Pleas Court To-day.

A sensational suit was filed in common pleas court this afternoon. Rudolph Thiede by his attorney, James E. Pilliod, filed action against Frederick Drover and others to set aside the conveyance of property in Toledo, valued at over $30,000.

The petition alleges that it is the consummation of a well laid plot to defraud the plaintiff of his property. It states that for a long time Frederick S. Drover, the son-in-law of the plaintiff, has been exercising influence over him, enticing him from home, and endeavoring to convince him that his wife was unfaithful, all to this end; that on the 17th of July, after inducing him to indulge in strong drink, so as to completely incapacitate him from conducting his own business secured a deed to all of his property in Toledo without one cent consideration.

A RAILROAD WAR.

Big Roads Refuse to Obey the Order of the Chairman.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—Chairman Blanchard, Goddard, Midgeley and Walker yesterday received the greatest setback they have ever had. The Lake Shore, Michigan Central, Pennsylvania and Erie have refused as absolutely as the Burlington to enforce their order reducing divisions over the Illinois, Indiana & Iowa.

Non-connecting lines declare that the Illinois, Indiana & Iowa buys its immense traffic with the almost double divisions it receive, and that they will drive it out of business if it costs millions and breaks up existing associations.

PERSONAL MENTION.

T. N. Brierley, of Pemberville, is in the city today.

Mr. J. T. Elderkin, who recently went into the insurance business in this city, will be joined by his family to-day. They will make their home on Seventeenth street, corner Monroe. Mr. Elderkin, who was many years of resident of Fremont, and was two terms treasurer of Sandusky county, has been living for some years in Portland, Ore.

Rev. D. B. Martin, of Ashtabula county, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. F. P. Chapin, of this city. Mr. Martin was a student under the Rev. D. M. Fisk, of the First Congregational church, while the latter was professor at Hillsdale university. Mr. Martin remains in Toledo a few days, and will then go to Hillsdale on a brief visit to old friends.

The Flower that blooms in New York may not fade before the presidential campaign.

Mr. Flickinger will learn to his sorrow that Hon. Jacob Romeis is a power in Lucas county.

Perhaps when Flickinger denied his nationality he was preparing to become a Know Nothing.

The local administration of Mayor Emmick will help swell the democratic majority in Lucas county.

Brice for president, is suggested by a western democratic paper. A good suggestion. If nominated he will be elected.

Foster Warren has held office before in Lucas county and the tax payers have great confidence in him. It is the general opinion that he will be elected commissioner this fall.

Democrats are working for the whole ticket and hundreds of republicans in Lucas county will also vote the straight democratic ticket. The election promises to be a republican Waterloo.

The skilled workmen in the tin industry at Demmler are furnished by the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers.—High-tax Organ.

Exactly! and the iron and steel mill owners are the ones who reap the benefit of the extra tax on their rolled plate, which any workman can "dip" provided there is anything to dip it in.

If the present political campaign is of national significance, then let the extravagance of the billion dollar congress be an issue for the republicans to champion. Let them defend Reedism and McKinleyism before the people. Every class interest was taken care of by Reed, aided by McKinley, and while the classes enjoy greater profits since the passage of the McKinley bill, not a single mechanic in the United States has enjoyed the benefit of an increase of wages. The law is a fraud upon the workers, and the author of the monstrosity should be defeated in November.

Roswell G. Horr of Michigan is as big a romancer as his twin brother of Wellington, Ohio. The wolverine told a New York reporter that McKinley will have 12,000 majority in Hamilton county. The shrewdest political observers in Cincinnati do not place the republican majority at more than 2,000, and it would not be surprising if Gov. Campbell should again carry Hamilton county.

McKinley says his law was passed in the interest of labor. Why is it that not a labor association in the whole country has indorsed the law?

McKinley says his law was passed in the interest of the farmers. Why is it that not an alliance or farmers' organization has indorsed the law?

Do the laborers and the farmers or Mr. McKinley know what is the better for labor and the farm?

The McKinley law is a monstrosity and a fraud.

The papers were served on Dr. Briggs by the New York Presbytery yesterday, and the trial to decide whether or no the reverend gentleman is a heretic in an academic, theological cloak, will one day be determined. For seventeen years Dr. Briggs has been professor and teacher of Hebrew in the Union Seminary and an acknowledged authority and critic by students in and out of schools. It will take a learned judge and jury to decide upon the correctness of his interpretation of scripture. Reports of the closing proceedings of the session show how intense upon both sides is the feeling within the church.

The circular letter sent out from Columbus by the republican executive committee is getting to be quite monotonous as editorial matter in the party organs from Maine to California. Its significance, briefly stated is, "republican success in Ohio is of first importance to the party" for reasons below stated. And the object in sending this reminder into every state and county in the union is a bid for campaign "assistance." The new law for voters is correctly called in the circular, "the new democratic ballot law," and it gives the party a twinge every time it is mentioned. The frantic appeal for help may meet substantial response, but the election in November next is not to be a boodle contest if honest men in Ohio can help it.

We beg Mr. Engelhardt's pardon for taking exception to his famous declaration "that the commissioners will do as they d—n please." As our exception implied censure of Mr. Engelhardt's colleagues, Cooke and Pray, we also beg their pardon. Engelhardt was right, and he knew what he was talking about. They have the right to do as they please. Some people, like the Bee, thought differently, but they too were wrong. A democratic common pleas judge has officially promulgated the learned opinion, that the commissioners are above all law, hence they may do as they please with impunity. This is a splendid (?) position for a democratic judge to take when a good democrat is trying to defeat Engelhardt for re-election, but great is the wisdom and learning of a judge and not to be questioned. If re-elected, Mr. Engelhardt can continue to do as he pleases. Thank you, judge, thank you. The commissioners ought to vote you a medal.

Republican partisan newspapers have written down George William Curtis, the celebrated mugwump, as "off in his mind," "only a relic of his better self," "a mental decline," to say nothing of the dreadful names they have called him. The following extract from a peculiar New York journal shows what sudden change of mind or at least of expression, may be brought about by "a simple twist of the wrist," when an editor is simply an organ grinder—speaking of "the flocking to Fassett:"

Now comes Harper's Weekly, with its celebrated editor, the eloquent George William Curtis, and his immediate following of 600 votes in the great Harper establishment.—Mail and Express.

The organ's republican idea of an employer's domination over the votes of his employes, is the kind of "civil service reform" that obtains in the present-day administration. It is "amusing as well as instructive,"

Hon. W. H. Kinder, insurance commissioner of Ohio, in St. Louis attending the national convention of insurance commissioners, is given a column in the St. Louis Republic. Among other things he tells the reporter that the record of the present administration is considered the most creditable that Ohio has had in years, and is so indorsed by many republicans, who concede that it has done much in the interest of the farmers, who have been sadly neglected by previous republican administrations. The last legislature made a record we are proud of, and Senator Oren, one of the most influential members of the republican side of the senate, said in a recent speech that it had passed more laws that would benefit the farmer than any legislature the state had had in the last quarter of a century. The flagrant use of money in elections will be curtailed to a minimum by the Australian ballot law under which we vote this fall.

Great doings on the other side of the sea. House of Lords to be abolished, church and state divorced, laws of entail repealed, more representation for labor in parliament, registration laws to be revised, Ireland to be home ruled—all this and more, enthusiastically resolved by the great Liberal Federation convention at Newcastle-on-the-Tyne. The United States is complimented by being frequently mentioned as model for various reforms. Among other things, they said, "pay our members of the Commons, as they do in the United States," but the sum proposed was not half the amount received by our own legislators.

Gladstone's speech is pronounced magnificent, daring, splendid, by Liberal journals, but is severely criticised by the Conservatives as truckling to a low class of politicians, bidding for personal popularity, etc., but "fame is made of such as this."

When it is remembered that millions of voters are represented in this convention, expressions like the above, embodied in resolutions are big with meaning.

TAX-MADE INDUSTRIES.

The effort to make "American tin plate" a campaign issue is simply ridiculous. That the country would swarm with tin plate factories in less than three months after the new tax law became operative, especially when mines were to be discovered and developed, is preposterous. That prices would change very greatly at first when importers had stocked up ahead in anticipation of the tax levy, was not certain. It remained with the overstocked importers and the wholesale dealers to determine. That a prohibitive trade law and a perpetual tribute from the people's treasury will enable Americans to manufacture tin whether the ore is mined in Mexico or Africa, is an uncontradictable fact. So could we raise our own tea, in hot houses, if people would consent to pay six dollars or more a pound for it. The iron and steel business has been fostered and aided by the people's money until it overtops all other industries of the country, and yet, while its beneficiaries boast of their strength to defy the world, they demand and are granted the further protection of "an infant industry" that they may be able to "regulate" prices in the world's market and not be subject to the fluctuations of trade consequent upon conditions of demand and supply, as other industries are, not thus guarded.

But these pampered and rank-grown manufactories do not stand for the country's prosperity when the agricultural and general laboring classes are taxed poor for their support and abnormal growth. The system tends straight to a moneyed aristocracy, resting firmly upon a deceived and submissive peasant class, which, as is seen in the history of the world's nations, will lose all independence and sink, with every succeeding generation, lower into the menial and burdened ways of life.

When the aggregated wealth of the United States is paraded, the thoughtful man will deduct from the sum the hundreds of millions that belong to individuals, singly and in vast corporations, and divide what is left amongst the majority of the population—the producers of all this wealth. Then he will begin to comprehend how the system of favoritism for certain industries works, and that the maximum benefit goes to the shrewd sharks whose interest in politics consists only in the effort to keep the alms from the people's treasury flowing into their coffers.

These are fundamental truths for voters to consider, dispassionately, and they have only to study results and trace back to causes to be convinced.

In this campaign Gov. Campbell relies upon the people for support. Mr. McKinley relies upon the money of the protected industries to help him to election. One is the friend of the masses, the other is the agent of the classes.

There is a new Richmond in the field and this is the way the lance is thrust by the Omaha Bee:

Omaha has captured the presidency and headquarters of the Irish National league. In these days when Omaha goes after anything she gets it. The remark is offered as solace for Chicago and Minneapolis anent the republican national convention.

Since it is announced that Manager Daly has been given carte blanche with Lord Tennyson's drama—to stage dress as he pleases and even to cut the lines, there is hope that it may be a success.

"Not another dollar to be contributed to any Irish fund till that $200,000 in Paris is paid to tenants."—Irish National League of America. Correct.

The "Itata" again—no matter, she only "sailed away."

CHARGED WITH TREASON.

Toledo's Man on the Republican Central Committee.

He is Defended by His Boss, W. I. Squire,

Who Writes a Sarcastic Epistle Ridiculing the Central Body—George Holmes and Louis Nunn Prefer the Charges.

They are after Squire.

The republican state central committee want to know, you know,

Why Squire's lieutenant is attempting to down Flickinger.

George Holmes and Louis Nunn prefer charges of treason against a member of the state central committee.

And Squire is called down squarely and hauled over the coals, so to speak.

Squire writes a letter to his lieutenant, ridiculing the central body.

There's lots of fun ahead.

There was a red hot meeting of the republican state central committee in Columbus last week, and several committeemen from various parts of the state were arraigned on charges of high treason, ostensibly to the republican party, but in reality to Joseph Benson Foraker.

The statesman who represents the intelligent and highly intellectual element of the republican party of Lucas county is on the rack, and he is one of four who will be called upon to answer to the charge of high treason.

A tersely written communication, said to be signed by George Holmes and Louis Nunn, two members of the Lucas county republican committee, was received at headquarters last Monday.

In it W. I. Squire's lieutenant and right-hand bower, ex-Labor Commissioner Fassett, is charged with gross disloyalty and treason.

The specific charges is in effect that he (Fassett) has conspired and is conspiring to defeat for election a republican candidate for the legislature in the person of Hon. Carl A. Flickinger. Squire himself is incidentally mentioned.

At the meeting of the committee held last week President Squire was called upon for an explanation, and he did explain, but not to the entire satisfaction of the committee.

He was very indignant that the probity and honesty of his trusted lieutenant should be called into question. The parties prefering the charges were men of no reputation. He (Squire) as president of the Ohio Republican league, had an opportunity of knowing what was going on in that part of the state, and he knew his men were loyal to the party.

In answer to a query, he said it was possible that Mr. Fassett could be doing some double-dealing without his (Squire's) knowledge, but he did not think it probable.

The president waxed wroth as he proceeded in his investigation.

He said he knew what he was doing, and he did not propose that the state central committee should run the State league. It wouldn't if he knew it, and he thought he did.

After a somewhat heated debate the matter was finally referred until such times as the parties who made the charges had an opportunity of proving them. They will be asked to explain.

Mr. Squire when the conference adjourned sat down and wrote Fassett a long sarcastic letter, in which he mercilessly ridicules the attempts of the state central body to muzzle him, or to besmirch one of his lieutenants. He asked Fassett for an explanation just "for show" and laughs at the idea that Flickinger can under any circumstances, be elected.

Squire's love for Flickinger is illustrated in a little story that is going the rounds.

The subject turned upon Flickinger's flim-flam of Jacob Romeis, and the gentleman to whom Squire was speaking remarked that Flickinger was a poor politician. "Do you know," said Squire, "If the anarchists ever get the upper hand in this country, Flickinger should promptly take to the woods?"

"Why so, has he ever done anything to merit—"

There was a twinkle in the statesman's eye as he interrupted.

"No, no—The first clause in the creed of an anarchist, is that everything that exists must have a cause for existence or get. Flickinger has none, see?"

SEARCH LIGHT AND NAVIGATION.

Considerable inconvenience is caused to vessels going up and down the Thames by the electric search light from the forts commanding the Lower Hope Reach. The navigable channel in the Lower Hope is only half a mile wide, and is invariably crowded with craft. When the search light from the fort is thrown dead on a steamer, the moment it is removed the sense of darkness is intensified, and if at the time a sailing vessel should happen to be quite near there is nothing for it but to stop the engines until the effect of the brilliant light has passed away.

A LAKE'S CLIMATIC EFFECT.

A lake has a wonderfully tempering effect on the climate. Thus, according to M. Forel, the quantity of heat accumulated in the lake of Geneva during the summer of 1889 was equal to that given off by the combustion of 31,000,000 tons of coal, or the amount carried by a coal train 1,120 miles in length. The greater part of the heat is discharged into the air of the valley during the cold season, thus producing a milder temperature in autumn and winter.

A Tribute to Mills.

Mr. Mills has a directness and force in discussing the tariff which wins for him the heartiest abuse of the defenders of modern feudalism. In Ohio the gentleman from Texas has spoken with great effect, and his exposure of the folly and fraud of the McKinley tariff has aroused the republicans to a campaign of vituperation and abuse which is a high tribute to his ability.—Courier-Journal.

A Use for Col.-Editor Shepard.

It is reported that Blair may be accepted by China after all, as Colonel Shepard has taken up his cause, and as the Chinese idea of warfare is making a hideous noise the Chinese probably think that the Colonel is a warrior to be dreaded.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

General Turn Out Advised.

When a rascal is discovered in the public service the president should immediately turn him out and then hunt up his successor. There can be no excuse for retaining an unfit official a single moment after his unfitness has been discovered.—Washington Post.

Is the Polecat Protected?

A man in Ohio is carrying on the infant industry of polecat culture. It might be thought at this distance that the foulmart market had been already oversupplied in Ohio.—Philadelphia Record.

They are Spook Pictures.

Nearly all the "tariff pictures" which adorn the pages of republican papers, are tin-types—they fade when exposed to the sun-light of truth.—Springfield Democrat.

The Major's Hoodoo.

Maj. McKinley has got a left hind foot of a rabbit caught in a grave yard at midnight. That ought to bring him luck sooner than an American tin badge manufactured in Wales.—Boston Herald.

Congratulated.

The Toledo Bee has moved into a fine new building erected for its special use. We extend congratulations and hope that it will thrive in its new hive more than in the old.—Columbus News.

He Gets There, Just the Same.

Governor Campbell was a little late in jumping into the tariff reform canvass in Ohio, but he appears to be making up for lost time.—Kansas City Star.

CONGRESSMAN MILLS

Will Address the People of Toledo on Friday Evening.

The democratic executive committee has made all the arrangements for a grand rally at Memorial hall on Friday night, at which time that eloquent champion of tariff reform, Congressman Mills, of Texas, will speak, and will be followed by Capt. George W. Bell.

Every democrat in the city should make it a point to attend. Hon. Frank Hurd will preside.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

In a Nutshell.

TO THE EDITOR:—The labor question is the issue in this campaign. Put in its simplest form the workingmen demand "fair pay for a fair day's work," in other words, the wage should be measured by production and not what necessity may compel them to accept. The practice of buying labor in a competitive market, without regard to its productive capacity, has no ethical or economic support. The inevitable result is industrial slavery.

What has the republican party done towards equalizing wages and production? No party ever had such a grand opportunity to become the champion of labor; for thirty years it has been continuously in power, and the period was plastic, more so than at any previous time in the nation's history. During these thirty years production has increased, by the use of labor saving machines, five fold, and yet wages have not advanced, nor have the hours of labor been proportionally shortened. It has protected labor from the pauper labor of Europe, by reducing many of our workers to a helpless state of pauperism; it has inaugerated a system of taxation that taxes the wants and not the property of the nation; its whole financial legislation has been inspired by Wall street; it has given us a plutocracy more dangerous to our institutions than the worst form of socialism. These are the things that the republican party has done in the interests of labor, and, backed by the moneyed power it is pledged to the continuance of its former policy.

On the other hand, the democratic party proposes to remove the tax from the necessaries of life; to make property the basis of taxation; to lay a graded income tax, which is only unpopular with the few who would have to pay it. No tax can be more equitable and just. This, in brief, is the democratic policy, and it means a radical change, a sweeping reform, which will materially benefit every workingman. Once place taxation where it rightfully belongs, and the labor question is practically solved. Let no struggling man on the 31st of November forget this fact.

Toledo, October 5. J. G. SMITH.

AUBURNDALE.

Some Points on Toledo's Finest Suburb.

A Good Season of Advancement and Improvement—One of Its Institutions—Feeling Regarding Annexation.

Toledo's lively suburb of Auburndale has just passed a good season of improvement and prosperity and all is peaceful out there except on the question of annexation, and that is not creating much trouble. Auburndale is composed of a class of citizens who for energy and enterprise are up to the best in the city and they possess a much more public spirit than do the most in the city.

A large number of new residences have been erected at Auburndale during the summer just passed and many more are now in the course of building. All of these houses are good substantial dwellings and several very fine residences are numbered among them.

Among the other improvements of the year are the Monroe Street M. E. church, on the corner of Monroe street and Auburn avenue, which is a big improvement over the old one and the handsome house of worship now being built by the Episcopalians on the corner of Auburn and Milburn avenues.

The increasing business and importance of Auburndale is also shown by the improvements of the Lake Shore Railroad company, who are just putting the finishing touches on a new frame freight depot 130x40 feet in size. The depot that was formerly used for both passenger and freight business is to be entirely remodeled and used exclusively for passenger business.

During the past season the Young Men's Christian Association have erected a neat building, the lower part of which will be occupied by two stores, the second floor containing a large hall for the association.

Streets and sidewalks have been improved and altogether Auburndale presents the appearance of a thriving city.

It is becoming noted as a manufacturing section, and has great advantages in this respect. Among the more prominent of the manufacturing industries in Auburndale, outside of the limits of Toledo are the large foundry of Shaw, Kendall & Co., who occupy the old Fontaine Crossing foundry building which they have greatly improved and enlarged; the Great Western Pin and Pulley works; Metzger Bros.' linseed oil mill, with a capacity of $200,000; Baumgardner's cot bed factory; the Tubular Axle company, who have recently enlarged their factory, and Lozier & Yost's bicycle works.

Then besides these there are located just inside the city line the Milburn wagon works; Smead's heating and ventilating foundry and factory; the Toledo Metal Wheel works; the Harris Toy company; the Toledo Licorice works and Koch's carriage top manufactory.

These are all first-class institutions, most of them with large brick buildings and all doing a heavy business.

The population of Auburndale is variously estimated, but the census recently taken by Postmaster Mason shows a population of about 2,000 in precinct C, which includes Auburndale proper, outside of the city limits.

Regarding annexation, of which there has been considerable talk lately, the sentiment is divided. Some of the residents of Auburndale favor coming into the city, but the largest sentiment is for staying out for a few years. They have had numerous improvements under the county commissioners in the way of stone roads and sewers and expect to get more, while in the present impoverished condition of the city they don't think their section would fare so well if they were brought under control of the municipal authorities. For this reason most of the citizens favor leaving matters stand as they are for a few years, in which time they will be in better condition and then will want to come in of their own accord.

As one of the prominent citizens said: "We have nothing to gain by going into the city now and everything to lose. But we know that we properly belong in the city and when we get in better shape we will be glad to come in.

Simple Problems in Comparison.

Squaring the circle and perpetual motion are simple problems compared with the complex scheme of levying duties on foreign articles in order that the consumer may get them at a cheaper rate than if the duties were not imposed.—Boston Transcript.

A Precedent for Flanagan.

Webster Flanagan, who has just taken charge of the custom house at El Paso, is already overrun by officeseekers. Ordinarily Mr. Flanagan would feel like doing something for such applicants. He knows what we are here for "and is a firm believer in the spoils system." But, as it happens, most of these place hunters are negroes and he has a high precedent at the White House for giving them nothing.—Chicago Herald.

Toledo Has Them, Though.

In Polish Russia nobody who does not belong to the Czar's church is allowed to manage a factory or a mill. Some people even in free America, would be glad to bar out from business and politics all who are not of their own theological way of thinking. But, happily, these bigots are by comparison few and far between.—Boston Globe.

Why Not "Protection to Labor?"

A New York newspaper offers a prize of $200 for the best farce upon an American subject. It would seem that the idea of calling that assemblage which simply ratified the selections of a committee of seven silk-stocking republicans a "nominating convention" comes pretty near being a farce.—Chicago Times.

DEPARTMENT REPORTS.

They are Being Turned in at Washington.

Governor Knapps Tell of Alaska's Progress.

British Poachers Have Illegally Captured 60,000 Seal—The Red Man—The Health of the Army.

Washington, Oct. 6.—Surgeon General Sutherland has made his annual report to the secretary of war upon the operations of his bureau during the year. He says that an aggregate reduction of $100,000 will be made in the estimates of appropriations for the next fiscal year for the entire expenses of the medical department.

Since the passage of the act of March 3, 1891, making the period of renewal of artificial limbs three years instead of five, congress has failed to make the necessary appropriation to meet the additional expenses and the result will be a deficiency of $241,650 for the present fiscal year on this account.

The report speaks of the efficiency of the hospital corps as shown during the Sioux campaign; urges the necessity of offering inducements to enlisted men to enter its ranks, and suggests that $6 per month be added to the pay of the privates in the corps.

Good results are said to have followed the adoption of the new system of identification of deserters, based on records of permanent marks and scars.

As to the general health of the army, the report shows that while the number of sick reports was larger than during the previous year, the number of men constantly sick—42.71 per thousand—compares favorably with 44.12 per thousand in the previous year.

The cases of treatment of alcholism number 4.73 per thousand for the army against 41.43 in 1889, and 56.68, the average during the previous decade, and in this connection the surgeon general notes with satisfaction that so many of the larger posts are at the lower end of the list.

The reports of the past year show that great improvement in the diet of the men has been made within the past year, so that complaints are infrequent and the complaints are due to local causes. The complaints concerning clothing were not so numerous.

Treating in detail the subject of alcoholism, the report says: "One thing is certain, that drunkenness is on the decrease among our troops. The colored soldier is seldom on sick report from this cause. Every medical officer who refers to the canteen system approves of it, with the exception of Capt. R. B. Ball, temporarily at Fort Riley, Kan., but his remarks would have more value as against the canteen if Fort Riley was a post having a reputation for alcoholism, but as a matter of fact it had just six cases of drunkenness during the year in its garrison of 640 men. Only 13 posts had a better record, and 108 had a worse, and the facts appear to argue in favor of the canteen, notwithstanding the views of Capt. Ball."

The surgeon general says that the canteen has relieved our military posts of one-third of the cases of alcoholism that formerly tended to the demoralization of the individual, the infraction of discipline, assaults, injuries and death.

In conclusion it is strongly recommended that at each post there be established a systematic course of athletic exercises to improve the physique of the men, as this does not follow from military drills.

FROM FAR-OFF ALASKA.

Gov. Knapp Presents His Annual Report.

Washington, Oct. 6.—Lyman E. Knapp, the governor of Alaska, in his annual report to the secretary of the interior, devotes considerable space to the seal islands and the seal industry. The most serious difficulty in the matter, says the governor, is the illegitimate slaughter of the females and the young in the open seas. There is no doubt that a hundred marauding vessels have been hovering about the islands in Bering sea during the season, and large numbers of skins have been taken. The steamer Danube made a special trip to the Northern Pacific during the latter part of June, reaching Victoria on return July 6 last, having on board nearly 18,000 sealskins received from some 35 sealing vessels, which it met apparently by appointment.

Those delivering their cargoes to the Danube were all British vessels. The governor estimates the number illegitimately taken during the small part of last season at from 50,000 to 60,000.

The products of Alaska exported during the year and their value are stated as follows: 688,332 cases of salmon, valued at $2,753,328; 4,150 pounds of ivory, worth $9,307,231; 282 pounds of whalebone, worth $1,503,333; 14,890 gallons of whale oil, worth $4,467; 1,138,000 codfish, $569,000; 7,300 barrels salted salmon, $73,000; gold and silver bullion, $1,000,000; 21,596 fur seals taken under lease, $647,880; 60,000 skins taken by poachers, $1,800,000; other furs and skins, $450,000; curios, $25,000; other products, $166,000; total, $8,941,515.

The reports give an account of the progress made in education the work as carried on by the government. He suggests that the management of the schools should be made, as far as practicable, local, and that they should be non-partisan and non-sectarian.

He favors the appointment of a territorial board of public instruction to be appointed by the secretary of the interior and under the control of the commissioner of education to have full authority as to the government schools and the expenditure of the public moneys.

In reaching this conclusion he had in view the remoteness of the territory and the fact that not less than a dozen religious societies are pressing for a share of government funds to be distributed to contract schools.

The government comments upon the need of additional legislation, and states that in the last seven years congress has given the territory no new laws except the townsite and land acts. It is important now, he thinks, that the methods of drawing juries be modified and also the other regulations relative to juries and other details of the government administration. He considers that the territorial form of government is impracticable, as the revenue would not be sufficient to meet the expenses of the same. He, however, makes no specific recommendation on the subject. The townsite law passed by the last congress, he thinks, should be supplemented with legislation providing for municipal corporations. He thinks that congress should appoint a special committee to look after Alaskan interests and Alaskan legislation and that the legal and political status of the native population should be defined by legislative enactment.

THE RED MAN.

The Commissioner of Indian Affairs Makes His Report.

Washington, Oct 6.—The 16th annual report of the commissioner of Indian affairs has just been submitted to the secretary of the interior.

After alluding to the increased public interest in the subject of Indian administration the commissioner outlines what he regards as the settled policy of the government in its dealings with the Indians, emphasizing comprehensiveness, definiteness of aim, clearness of outline, adaptation of means to ends, justice, firmness, humanity, radicalness, stability and time as the essential elements of such a policy. He thinks that the great forces now at work—land in severalty, with its accompanying dissolution of the tribal relation and breaking up of the reservations, the destruction of agency system, citizenship, and all that belongs thereto, of manhood, independence, privilege and duty; education, which seeks to bring the rising generation of Indians into right relationship with the age in which they live and to put into their hands the tools by which they may gain for themselves food and clothing and build for themselves homes—will if allowed to continue undisturbed a reasonable length of time, accomplish these beneficient ends.

The report discusses at considerable length the political status of the Indians, tracing the evolution of the present policy of dealing with the Indians as wards. As a result of the historical survey the commissioner draws a number of political conclusions among them the following:

That the fiction of regarding them as independent peoples has been displaced by the theory of regarding and treating them as wards of the general government.

That the time has come for a declaration by congress to the effect that hereafter it will not recognize the Indians as competent to make war, but that in our dealings with them they shall be treated not as belligerents, but as subjects and dependent people, capable of course of insurrection, rioting or disturbance of the peace, but not of waging war.

That the general government has the right, both for its own protection, the protection of the public welfare and for the good of the Indians, to establish schools in which their children may be prepared for citizenship, but also to resort to whatever force may be necessary to secure to the Indian children the benefit of these institutions.

I venture also to suggest whether the time is not at hand for the passage of an enabling act, whereby the five civilized tribes may form either a territorial or state government and be represented on the floors of congress; that the time has come when the Pueblo Indians should be admitted by special act of congress, "to the enjoyment of all the rights of citizens of the United States, according to the principles of the constitution," as contemplated by the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo.

After giving an account of the progress made in the allotment of the lands to the Indians during the past year, the commissioner says that "This radical and far-reaching revolution in the social status of the Indians is making satisfactory progress. Land in severalty has in it the 'promise and potency' of great things, but only the promise and the potency. In many cases it brings unutterable woe and is liable to leave the Indian worse off than before."

Regarding the reduction of the reservations, which has proceeded with great rapidity during the year, the report says: "While it is possible to push this work too rapidly, perhaps, I do not hesitate to say that the ultimate destruction of the entire system of reservations is inevitable. There is no place for it in our present condition of life. The millions of acres of Indian lands now lying absolutely unused, are needed as homes for our rapidly increasing population, and must be so utilized. Whatever right and title the Indians have in them is subject to and must yield to the demands of civilization. They should be protected in the permanent possession of all this land that is necessary for their own support, and whatever is ceded by them should be paid for at its full market value. But it cannot be expected, under any circumstances, that these reservations can remain intact, hindering the progress of civilization, requiring an army to protect them from the encroachments of home seekers, and maintaining a perpetual abode of savagery and animalism."

The report discusses quite at length the subject of Indian education. The enrollment of Indian pupils for the year ended June 30 has been 17,926, an increase over last year of 1,549.

The amount of congressional appropriation for Indian education available for the year to come is nearly $2,250,000. The commissioner regards the education of the Indian as the only solution of the Indian problem.

Regarding contract schools, the commissioner recommends the maintenance of the status quo for the present, but urges that the appropriation of public funds for sectarian education is contrary to the spirit of the constitution, opposed to public policy, and ought at an early date to be discontinued.

The report discusses a great variety of topics, and contains full statistical tables and other information regarding all matters that have been under consideration during the past year.

MILLS ON MCKINLEYISM.

It is excessive taxation, remorseless, confiscating taxation, indirect, concealed hypocritical, exhaustive and blighting taxation. Not your state taxation that is levied on wealth and requires from you less than $1 on every $100 of your property, not your county or other local taxation that is levied in the sight of your eyes, and is imposed, too, on wealth. But it is that other taxation that comes over the wall like a thief in the night, that muffles its feet and gloves its hands with softest kid, that conceals its features with the mask of patriotism; that taxation which tells you it is making you rich, when it is robbing the mouth of labor of the bread it has earned; that taxation that like a vampire fans your cheeks with cooling airs and soothes you to sleep, and while you are slumbering buries its beak in your veins and draws your life away.

DEMAND FOR CITY GAS.

Contracts Being Made at the Rate of 160 a Day.

Business Session of the Board of Gas Trustees—More Streets to be Piped—The Library Building Contract.

The natural gas trustees, all the members present except Mr. Backus, held a lengthy session last evening, and ground out an unimportant schedule.

"Contracts are coming in at the rate of 160 a day," said Gen. Greene, prior to the meeting, "and we are just having all we can do."

Frank Tanner again appeared in behalf of the Manhattan flouring mill. The mills will be furnished gas when the company advances $2,000, the cost of furnishing pipe and constructing a line.

Mayor Emmick and Mr. Frank J. Scott appeared in the interest of the library building. The library trustees desired to make contracts for heating and lighting the building and wanted to know what the board could do for them.

President Parsons said the rate for school buildings was two-thirds the established price paid to the Northwestern Gas company.

Dr. Jones moved that the same rate be made as for the schools.

Mr. Brown amended that the price be fixed at 50 per cent. of present rates, or 6 cents per meter rate. The amendment was lost and it was finally decided to make the rate per meter 6 cents, per mixer two-thirds the rates of Northwestern prices.

Mr. Greene, from the committee on city plant, recommended that the Huron block (U. A. Scott's) be furnished gas at Northwestern prices.

The recomendation was adopted, although Mr. Parsons protested that the report should come from the committee on prices.

President Parsons remarked that it looked as if the committee on city plant was running things.

Mr. Brown retorted that the fact of the matter was that the committee was actually doing all the work.

Several recommendations from Superintendent O'Herron were adopted.

The Lafayette Construction company requested that certificates amounting to $1,000, due the company, be transferred to R. W. Smith. It was referred to the manager.

The following streets were ordered piped: Twenty-second, Jefferson to Madison; Jarvis to Sumner, 400 feet east; Forrer, Division, 200 feet east; Peck, Elm to Chestnut; Broadway, Crittenden to Maumee; Eleventh, Jefferson, 423 feet; Ontario, Crane Lane to Chestnut; South Platt street, Idaho to Navarre; Monroe, Twenty-third, 134 feet; Franklin avenue, Adams to John; Adams, Fourteenth to Fifteenth; Humboldt to Elizabeth; Franklin, to Adams, 30 feet; Cherry, Scott to Woodruff avenue; Dutch Harker to Plymouth; Magnolia, Erie to Eagle Lane; Grand avenue, Monroe to Waite.

Petitions were read from residents on the following streets: Washington, Lawrence, 60 feet west, referred; Michigan, Magnolia to Bush, referred; Vinton, Harrison to canal, granted; Crane Lane, Cherry to Locust, referred; Ontario, Bush, 300 east, granted; Tenth, Jefferson to Monroe, granted; Huron, Stickney avenue to Bush, referred; Hicks, 150 feet West Hawthorn, granted; Forrer, Lenk to Clark, referred; Ostrich Lane, Cherry to Locust, granted; Locust, Bancroft to Mohr, referred; Illinois, Washington to Fifteenth, referred; Vermont avenue, Bancroft to Beacon, granted; East Broadway, Nevada to Irving, referred.

Receipts for gas amounting to $5,124 were reported.

Many matters of little importance were considered and at a late hour the board adjourned.

A BRIDEGROOM'S REVERIE.

It seems so strange to see her curls
Pinned up in paper and to know
Just how she cleans her teeth, those pearls,
And how she makes her eyebrows bow,

To hear her scold a little bit,
Or on tobacco gravely preach,
Or frankly guy my collar's fit
With perfect fearlessness of speech.

To watch her ironing bits of lace
And sewing buttons on her shoes,
And calmly powdering her face,
And with a hand-glass taking views,

At various angles of the style
In which her smooth back hair is dressed
And asking with a lenient smile
Which I consider looks the best.

To see her gently fall asleep
Upon my knee—the dearest sight!
And then to know that me she'll keep
Awake to chatter half the night.

These things quite wondrous seem to me
In this, my lovely ten-days' wife—
While any one would think that she
Had—well, been married all her life!

There would seem to be considerable timber in Europe. The forest areas of Germany are returned as follows: Prussia, 6,000,000 acres; Bavaria, 2,800,000 acres; Wurtemberg, 470,000 acres; Saxony, 416,000 acres, and Baden, 235,000 acres.

Life is rather an expensive institution from start to finish. It costs something to live and a good deal to die; in fact, everything costs. Someone estimates that getting born costs the people in the United States $250,000,000 annually; getting married $300,000,000, and getting buried $75,000,000.

Nature has its laboratories as well as men. A spring that gushes forth soda water and in reality forms a huge natural soda water fountain has been discovered in Oregon. The water is sparkling and effervescent, and when flavored and bottled cannot be distinguished from the artificial beverage.

The public is never admitted to see the furniture and paintings.

Some people, especially those vain of their good looks, are not afraid to face the camera often. There is a tract in Levi county, Fla., in which three holes have been dug 30 feet apart, and each excavation has laid bare parts of the skeleton of a huge animal. A hugh toadstool has appeared every fall for the last ten years on a low branch of an elm tree near Woldeck park, Berlin. September 3 the big toadstool sprouted for the eleventh time.

"Convent hair" is an article well known to the trade and highly prized. When a young woman takes the veil in the Roman Catholic church her hair is cut off, and the tresses are sold for the benefit of the convent. As the hair is cut pretty close to the head the tresses are usually long, and thus "convent hair" has a special value.

If it were possible for man to construct a globe 800 feet in diameter, and to place upon any part of its surface an atom one-four thousand three hundred and eighthieths of an inch in diameter and one-hundred and twentieth of an inch in height, it would correctly denote the proportion man bears to the earth upon which he stands.

A German doctor has been publishing the results of a long course of visual examinations. He finds that in only one case of fifteen are both eyes in good condition. In seven cases out of every ten people possess one eye which is stronger than the other. In two cases out of five patients are affected with astigmatism. Nearly fifty per cent. possess only an imperfect appreciation of colors.

It is easy to trace wheat back for nearly 4,000 years, or indefinitely earlier still, for it was known in the neolithic period when men lived in dwellings built on platforms supported by piles driven into the lakes of Switzerland. Near the remains of these dwellings wheat has been found, together with mealing stones, hearth stones and sickles, the wheat almost identical in character with that of the later Egyptian or even with that which has gladdened the fields of Dakota or Minnesota during the season of 1891.

A curious live cargo has been landed in Hamburg. It consists of a collection of snakes and serpents made by the agents of a naturalist in that city. For the purpose of transit they were placed in long coffin-like cases, with holes bored for ventilation and feeding. When unpacked they became much excited. Some of the assistants, in endeavoring to recapture them as they wound themselves round posts and stair balusters, sustained bites, which, however, have not proved serious. Some of the larger ones also took to swallowing the smaller fry. The demand for them from zoological societies, snake charmers and others appear to be considerable.

GREAT WEEK FOR SPORTS

Wonderful Horses to Test Their Speed.

Hal Pointer, Direct and Nancy Hanks to Go.

Much Interest Shown In the Yacht Race To-morrow Between the City and the Pappoose.

This week will be a historical one on the trotting turf. At Terre Haute today the great pacers, Direct, 2:06, and Hal Pointer, 2:09 3-4, will meet on the track for the first time and the race is very likely to uncover Hal Pointer's speed limit, which as yet is unknown.

There is no question that the records will go to smash. Direct is plenty fast enough to win a heat or two or perhaps the race, though the latter is very unlikely if Hal Pointer is on edge. Hal Pointer now holds the pacing race record of 2:10 3-4, 2:10 1-4, 2:10 1-4, but will have to go faster than that to beat the black stallion in straight heats.

On Wednesday or Thursday Maud S.'s crown is likely to fall and a new queen of the turf will reign if all goes well. On that day Doble will start Nancy Hanks against her Richmond record of 2:09. The Terre Haute track is faster than that at Richmond and there is but little doubt that the game daughter of Happy Medium will trot faster than 2:08 3-4 over it.

On Thursday at Grand Rapids Allerton, 2:09 1-4, and Nelson, 2:10, will meet. Allerton ought to win, though not perhaps in straight heats. He has proven himself to be faster than the Maine stallion. He is game, and, what is perhaps more important than all, he will be driven by a master reinsman in the person of C. W. Williams, while Nelson will be handled by a man whose ability in the sulky is doubted. Local money will go upon Allerton and there will be considerable of it, for quite a contingent of Clevelanders will go to Grand Rapids to see the race.

Pappoose—City Race.

The first really great yacht race that has taken place in the inland seas, says the Detroit Free Press, will occur tomorrow on Lake St. Clair between the 36-footers—the Pappoose, the "original forty," of Erie, Pa., and the local champion, the City of the Straits. This race should attract attention, not so much because the amount of money at stake is large, or because the City hails from Detroit, albeit local pride is commendable, but rather because one boat has been the champion of its class in the east and has never been beaten since its advent upon the lakes, while the other has been regarded as without a peer among white wings until the arrival of the above salt water craft to the south of us.

The race will be interesting also because the boats are built upon two entirely different models. The Pappoose was designed by the late Edward Burgess and its lines embody the result of years of study, work and experiment. The Burgess models were regarded as par excellence the embodiment of speed and stability, and until the appearance this spring of the Herreshoff skimmer, Gloriana, Burgess was regarded as king of American naval architects. His production, the Pappoose, fairly earned the title of champion by beating everything that came its way in salt water. It has been but slightly altered since it fell into its present owner's hands, and so may be still regarded as a Burgess boat out and out.

The City is built upon entirely different lines, upon lines which have hitherto been considered as adapted to the needs of the great lakes. So the race will really show whether the inland yacht builders have reached as high a degree of perfection as have those on the coast, whether salt water champions are as speedy for lake sailing, as well as proving which is the champion 36-footer of the lakes. No better results have followed from eastern yacht races than the enthusiasm that has moved designers and builders to aim to produce a speedier boat than any that has yet carried canvas. Hundreds of models have been and are being tried with varying degrees of success. Each year finds a new production in speed much superior to its predecessor, and in stability losing nothing of its seaworthiness. The easterners have set a praiseworthy goal for themselves as a result of yacht racing and are striving hard to attain it—perfection in pleasure boat building.

It is to be regretted that only one style of race is to be sailed in the coming match, and that thus the boats will hardly be afforded the fullest opportunity to test themselves. It may give the defeated a loophole to crawl out of. However, a victory for the City of the Straits next Wednesday will show the Atlantic coast designers that they might make a profitable educational tour of these regions, while defeat should inculcate a sterling lesson to our dormant yacht modelers.

Stockton, Cal., Oct. 6.—In exercising on the kite shaped track Marvin drove Sunol a half mile in 1:03 and jogged the full mile in 2:12 3-4. He speeded her only on the first half mile. Palo Alto trotted around the same in exercise in 2:11 1-2. His record is 2:12 1-4 in a race. The track is very fast, and all horsemen here predict that Sunol will beat 2:08 when she is sent against the record. The meeting next Tuesday promises to be very fast.

THE ALDERMEN

Go Very Slow on Several Matters Before Them.

Question Raised on Unjust Electric Light Taxes.

The Jury Ordinance and the Lowertown Robison Extension Both Laid Over Again—Other Business of Importance.

All the members were present at the meeting of the board of aldermen last evening, and in a two-hours' session disposed of considerable business. There was other important business that was not disposed of. The new jury ordinance was again laid over, as was also the ordinance granting to the Robisons that troublesome extension on Spring street, Mulberry street and Stickney avenue. The electric light assessments were also laid over.

Under the call for new business Mr. Hartford introduced a resolution which was adopted, requesting the railroad commissioner to have safety gates placed at the crossing of Brown road by the D. & M. tracks and also at the T. & O. C. crossing, and at the crossing of Wilmot avenue and the T. & O. C.

Mr. Peiter introduced a resolution, which was also adopted, granting permission to the property owners to grade at their own expense, Putnam street from Bancroft to Columbia; Columbia, Batavia and Winthrop streets, from Fulton to Putnam. These are the newly laid out and extended streets in Columbia Heights.

A resolution from Mr. Potter was adopted directing the city clerk to advertise for bids for printing the annual city reports.

Numerous schedules of bills were placed on the claim ordinance. A resolution was adopted authorizing the harbormaster to rent the slip at the foot of Elm street for $75 per year.

A resolution was adopted to pave Monroe street with asphalt from Bancroft street to the city line.

The resolution to pave Dove Lane with old Medina stone was referred back to the committee at the request of several property owners who want cobble stone.

On leave Mr. Graham presented a resolution granting to Gorman Bros. the right to deposit building material on the sidewalk at the corner of Broadway and Daniel streets while building a church at that corner. This was adopted.

Mr. Huberich introduced a resolution, which was adopted, providing for the appointment of a conference committee, consisting of two aldermen, three councilmen and the city solicitor to confer with the street railway companies and endeavor to settle the existing difficulties. Messrs. Huberich and Potter were appointed for the aldermen.

Objections were made to the resolution confirming the assessment for sewer 353 in the alley between West Broadway and Orchard streets, alley east of Lorain street, West Broadway and alley west of Lorain street from the sewer in Hawley street to the south line of lot 35, W. W. Whitney's addition. Attorney Curtis appeared on behalf of the property owners and made the same objection as made before the committee. The property owners claim that the bottom of the sewer is irregular, and that water stands in it stagnant, endangering the health of those in the community.

Contractor Cole claimed that the sewer was properly constructed and was laid precisely according to the stakes given by the engineer and the inspectors.

When questioned the city solicitor stated that as the sewer had been accepted and no objections filed at the proper time, it was now too late and the council could only confirm the assessment.

After more discussion the assessment was confirmed.

The report of the ways and means committee meeting held last night was presented. There were no bids for the Empire street bonds, and the auditor was instructed to dispose of them at private sale for par and accrued interest.

An ordinance was passed authorizing the issue of certificates of indebtedness amounting to $4,555, to pay damages for the change of grade on Nebraska avenue.

The communication from the auditor regarding the general fund, which was published in the Bee yesterday, was read and referred to the ways and means committee.

The assessment for the electric lighting of the past year was reported from the city engineer and at once raised a grave question.

Mr. Macomber inquired whether the assessment was made under the new or old law, and when informed that it was under the old, he made serious objections for the reason that it lays an unjust burden on corner lot owners who are obliged to pay an assessment per foot front on both streets, which is much greater than the benefits received.

City Solicitor Read stated that according to the statutes the assessment could not be made under the new law until next year. This new law relieves the burden on corner lots and puts half of the cost of electric lighting on the general taxation.

Mr. Macomber and Mr. Everett both spoke on the injustice done to corner lot owners, and opposed confirming such an assessment. Before this was done they wanted some of the corner lot assessments abated. A number of legal questions involved were discussed, and finally, on motion of Mr. Everett, the matter was referred to the judiciary committee.

The contract with H. P. Streicher for paving Western avenue from the canal to Wayne street was returned vetoed by the mayor, for the reason that the street is not in a fit condition to be paved, the contract is irregular and he did not think the sureties of the contractor good for $6,000. The veto was accepted.

The new jury ordinance came up for its third reading last night, but after brief discussion was laid over for two weeks as the question is now pending in common pleas court.

The ordinance granting to the Robison Electric Street Railway company the right to construct an extension along Spring street, Mulberry street and Stickney avenue struck another snag last night. It was the cause of considerable discussion, but no new points were brought up.

Mr. James Robison was present and urged its passage but finally on motion of Mr. Huberich it was laid over for two weeks by a vote of 5 to 4.

A resolution was adopted requesting the W. & L. E. Railway company to maintain safety gates at the Summit avenue crossing.

The resolution to plank Brown avenue was laid on the table on motion of Mr. Peiter as he stated that the road had been repaired and is now in good condition.

Resolutions were adopted to open Butler street from Navarre avenue to Earl street, to grade St. John street from Stickney avenue to C street and granting permission to property owners to place a curb on Melrose street.

An ordinance was passed to construct a sewer in Shaw avenue and alley between Lincoln and Oakwood avenues.

Resolutions were adopted for a sewer in Monroe street from Detroit avenue to Bancroft street and for sewers in Forrer street, Germania street, Missouri street and Vance street, all from Junction avenue to Brown avenue.

A resolution for a sewer in Nebraska avenue from Junction avenue to Brown avenue was referred back to the committee on motion of Mr. Peiter.

Permission was granted to property owners on Fulton street and Putnam street to construct a sewer at their own expense in the alley between these two streets from Bancroft street to Machen street.

Business from the board of councilmen was adopted.

A CREDIT TO THE EAST SIDE.

The Church Building Being Erected by the Second Congregational Society.

The handsome new brick building which the society of the Second Congregational church is putting up on Fourth street, between Cherry and Oak, will be a credit to East Toledo. The mason work is nearly completed, and the contractors expect to have the roof on by the middle of next week. The contract calls for the completion of the building, except ceiling, by January 1. The entrance is through a vestibule upon the ground floor, where are the main Sunday school room, primary department room, three or four class rooms, furnace room, etc. From the vestibule a pretty stairway leads through the tower on the southwest corner of the building to the auditorium floor. The auditorium is 26 feet high, clear, the lower floor 12 feet clear. The pulpit rostrum in the auditorium is on the northeast side, and the seats will be arranged in circular form.

This main floor will seat not less than 500 persons. When the gallery is put in the seating capacity will be between 900 and 1,000. The gallery, however, as well as the organ and some other complements to modern churches, will be left to the future. The windows will be of stained glass.

The cost of the building without these extras it is estimated will be $10,000. Of this sum $2,000 has been raised, and all bills to date are paid; $2,000 more are pledged, and the society is confident there will be no trouble in meeting its obligations. The larger building was absolutely necessitated by the increase of attendance at the church services.

The building committee is pushing the work with all possible speed. This committee is: Herman Gross, chairman; L. A. Brown, Rev. Samuel Bartlett, D. T. Davis, Charles Atkinson, Hinckley Hurd, Orson Sage.

THE SALE AT ARLINGTON

A Decided Success—Two Other Sales to Follow.

The Irving B. Hiett special sale of lots at Arlington is, to use a border expression, a howling success. The sale opened yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, but considerable delay was experienced on account of the inability of the street car lines to transport the immense throngs of people rushing to the grounds.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of the rush was that a great many of these people went there to buy, and the sale of over fifty lots is convincing evidence of this fact. The fair sex was represented in goodly numbers and not a few of them invested in lots, some of them on the Q. T., for the purpose of perpetrating a pleasant little surprise on their husbands later on.

As was announced, two lots were given away by lot to all persons present, one to the ladies and one to the gentlemen. When the twentieth slip was drawn the name of Miss Anna Kuhrt, of 531 Indiana avenue, was called. Miss Kuhrt responded, and was announced as possessor of lot 50, block 6.

Dr. R. R. Reynolds, of 314 Huron street, came up on the twentieth pull from the keg, and he was a fine lot better off.

F. W. Bateman, of 718 Mulberry street, was lucky and drew lot 16, block 17, and Frank Miller, 25 South Ontario street, drew lot 52, block 7.

Notes.

Another lot, free to all present, will be given away on Wednesday.

The rendering establishment across Swan creek from Arlington Place has been abolished.

The sale of lots continued to-day. It is probable that the lots will all be sold this week.

Robison avenue is to be extended from Arlington Place, east to turn in the asylum road.

Street cars will run to Arlington every eight minutes during the remainder of the week.

CONNECTICUT ELECTIONS.

Little Change in Results From Last Year.

Hartford, Conn., Oct. 6.—The election in this city and surrounding towns yesterday was generally conducted in a quiet manner. The result shows no great change from last year except in the case of Waterbury, where the election proved a great surprise. Mayor Baldwin (dem.) is defeated. The republicans also captured the common council.

Canton, Glastonbury, Sinsbury, Wethersfield, West Hartford, East Cranby, Bristol, Winchester and New Hartford went republican, and Bloomfield, Newington, East Hartford, Meriden and New Britain democratic.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 6.—The republicans of Ansonia say they will contest the election of all the democrats, as the ballots used yesterday were not printed according to law.

AN INTERESTING CASE.

A Long Fight Over Forty Acres of Land.

The case of William and Henry Rush et al. against John and Jacob Rush et al., error to the circuit court of Ashland county, was filed in the supreme court today.

Jacob Rush deeded forty acres of land to Henry Rush in consideration of being taken care of in his old age and left the instrument with J. J. Windigler. The deed was witnessed by H. A. L. Markle, the attorney, who is now serving a sentence in the penitentiary for assisting in forging the will of William Glass, father-in-law of Lamartine Greenwald.

In the original pleadings it was claimed that Henry Rush was not mentally qualified to transact business at the time the deed was made. The common pleas court decided in favor of the plaintiff, the decision was overruled by the circuit court and William and Henry Rush now bring the case to the supreme court for a final decision.

Regular features of every "wash day" are clothes torn, twisted and rubbed out of shape; and an aching back. You can't have any of these if you use Pearline. It cleans the house or hands, as well as it washes clothes. It injures nothing except dirt. Your heart will be heavy 'till you get it; your labor will be light when you have it.

Beware Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, do the honest thing—send it back. 222 JAMES PYLE, N.Y.

WHAT ARE WE HERE FOR?

God the Only One to Correctly Answer the Question.

Interesting Sermon by Dr. Talmage in the Brooklyn Tabernacle on Sunday Morning.

After Pilate had suicided, tradition says that his body was thrown into the Tiber and such storms ensued on and about that river that his body was taken out and thrown into the Rhone, and similar disturbances swept that river and its banks.

Then the body was taken out and removed to Lausanne, and put in a deeper pool, which immediately became the center of similar atmospheric and aqueous disturbances. Though these are fanciful and false traditions they show the execration with which the world looked upon Pilate. It was before this man, when he was in full life and power, that Christ was arraigned as in a court of Oyer and Terminer.

Pilate said to his prisoner: "Art thou a king, then"? and Jesus answered: "To this end I was born." Sure enough, although all earth and hell arose to keep him down. He is to-day empaneled enthroned, and crowned king of earth and king of heaven. "To this end was I born." That is what he came for, and that was what he accomplished.

By the time a child reaches ten years of age the parents begin to discover that child's destiny; but by the time he or she reaches fifteen years of age, the question is on the child's lips: "What am I to be? What am I going to be? What was I made for?" It is a sensible and righteous question, and the youth ought to keep on asking it until it is so fully answered that the young man, or the young woman, can say with as much truth as its author, though on a less expansive scale: "To this end was I born."

There is too much divine skill shown in the physical, mental, and moral constitution of the ordinary human being to suppose that he was constructed without any divine purpose. If you take me out on some vast plain and show me a pillared temple surmounted by a dome like St. Peter's and having a floor of precious stones and arches that must have taxed the brain of the greatest draughtsman to design, and walls scrolled and niched and paneled and wainscotted and painted, I should ask you what this building was put up for and you answered: "for nothing at all," how could I believe you?

And it is impossible for me to believe that any ordinary human being who has in his muscular, nervous, and cerebral organization more wonders than Christopher Wren lifted in St. Paul, or Phidias ever chisled on the Acropolis, and built in such a way that it shall last long after St. Paul's Cathedral is as much a ruin as the Parthenon—that such a being was constructed for no purpose, and to execute no mission, and without any divine intention toward some end.

The object of this sermon is to help you to find out what you are made for, and help you find your sphere, and assist you into that condition where you can say with certainty and emphasis and enthusiasm and triumph: "To this end was I born."

First, I discharge you from all responsibility for most of your environments. You are not responsible for your parentage or grand-parentage. You are not responsible for any of the cranks that may have lived in your ancestral line, and who a hundred years before you were born may have lived a style of life that more or less affects you to-day.

You are not responsible for the fact that your temperament is sanguine, or melancholic, or bilious, or lymphatic, or nervous.

Neither are you responsible for the place of your nativity, whether among the granite hills of New England, or the cotton plantations of Louisiana, or on the banks of the Clyde, or the Dnieper, or the Shannon, or the Seine.

Neither are you responsible for the religion taught in your father's house, or the irreligion. Do not bother yourself about what you cannot help, or about circumstances that you did not decree. Take things as they are and decide the question so that you shall be able safely to say: "To this end was I born."

How will you decide it? By direct application to the only Being in the universe who is competent to tell you—the Lord Almighty. Do you know the reason why he is the only one who can tell? Because he can see everything between your cradle and your grave, though the grave be eighty years off. And besides that, he is the only being who can see what has been happening for the last five hundred years in your ancestral line, and for thousands of years clear back to Adam, and there is not one person in all that ancestral line of six thousand years but has somehow affected your character, and even old Adam himself will sometimes turn up in your disposition.

The only Being who can take all things that pertain to you into consideration is God, and he is the one you can ask. Life is so short we have no time to experiment with occupations and professions. The reason we have so many dead failures is that parents decide for children what they shall do, or children themselves, wrought on by some whim or fancy, decide for themselves without any imploration of divine guidance.

So we have now in pulpits men making sermons who ought to be in blacksmith shops making ploughshares, and we have in the law those who instead of ruining the cases of their clients ought to be pounding shoe lasts, and doctors who are the worst hindrances to their patients' convalescence, and artists trying to paint landscapes who ought to be whitewashing board fences. While there are others making bricks who ought to be remodeling constitutions, or shoving planes who ought to be transforming literatures.

Ask God about what worldly business you shall undertake until you are so positive you can in earnestness smite your hand on your plow handle, or your carpenter's bench, or your Blackstone's Commentaries, or your Dr. Dick's Didatic Theology, saying, "For this end was I born." There are children who early develop natural affinities for certain styles of work. When the father of the astronomer Forbes was going o London he asked his children what present he should bring each one of them.

The boy who was to be an astronomer, cried out, "bring me a telescope!" And there are children whom you find all by themselves drawing on their slates, or on paper, ships or houses or birds, and you know they are to be draughtsmen or artists of some kind. And you find others ciphering out difficult problems with rare interest and success, and you knew they are to be mathematicians.

And others making wheels and strange contrivances, and you know they are going to be machinists. And others are found experimenting with hoe and plough and sickle, and you you know they will be farmers. And others are always swapping jack-knives balls or bats and making something by the bargain, and they are going to be merchants.

When Abbe de Rance had so advanced in studying Greek that he could translate Anacreon at 12 years of age, there was no doubt left that he was intended for a scholar. But in almost every lad there comes a time when he does not know what he was made for, and his parents do not know, and it is a crisis that God only can decide.

Then there are those born for some especial work, and their fitness does not develop until quite late, when Philip Doddridge, whose sermons and books have harvested uncounted souls for glory, began to study the ministry, Dr. Calamy, one of the wisest and best men, advised him to turn his thoughts to some other work.

Isaac Barrow, the eminent clergyman and Christian scientist—his books standard now though he has been dead over two hundred years—was the disheartenment of his father who used to say that if it pleased God to take any of his children away he hoped it might be his son Isaac.

So some of those who have been characterized for their stupidity in boyhood or girlhood, have turned out the mightiest benefactors or benefactresses of the human race.

These things being so, am I not right in saying that in many cases God only knows what is the most appropriate thing for you to do, and he is the one to ask. And let all parents, and all schools, and all universities, and all colleges recognize this, and a large number of those who spent their best years in stumbling about among businesses and occupations, now trying this and now trying that, and failing in all, would be able to go ahead with a definite, decided and tremendous purpose, saying, "to this end was I born."

But my subject now mounts into the momentous. Let me say that you are made for usefulness and heaven. I judge this from the way you are built. You go into a shop where there is only one wheel turning and that by a workman's foot on a treadle, and you say to yourself, "here is something good being done, yet on a small scale;" but if you go into a factory covering many acres, and you find thousands of bands pulling on thousands of wheels, and shuttles flying and the whole scene bewildering with activities, driven by water, or steam, or electric power, you conclude that the factory was put up to do great work and on a vast scale. Now, I look at you, and if I should find that you had only one faculty of body, only one muscle, only one nerve, if you could see but could not hear, or could hear and not see, if you had the use of only one foot or one hand, and, as to your higher nature, if you had only one mental faculty, and you had memory but no judgment, or judgment but no will, and if you had a soul with only one capacity, I would say not much is expected of you.

But stand up, oh man, and let me look you squarely in the face. Eyes capable of seeing everything. Ears capable of hearing everything. Hands capable of grasping everything. Mind with more wheels than any factory ever turned, more power than Corliss engine ever moved. A soul that will outlive all the universe except heaven, and would outlive all heaven if the life of other immortals were a moment short of the eternal. Now, what has the world a right to expect of you? What has God a right to demand of you? God is the greatest of economists in the universe, and he makes nothing uselessly, and for what purpose did he build your body, mind and soul as they are built? There are only two beings in the universe who can answer that question. The angels do not know. The schools do not know. Your kindred cannot certainly know. God knows, and you ought to know. A factory running at an expense of $50,000 a year, and turning out goods worth 70 cents a year, would not be such an incongruity as you, oh man, with such soul-infinite equipment, doing nothing, or next to nothing, in the way of usefulness. "What shall I do?" you ask. My brethren, my sisters, do not ask me. Ask God. There's some path of Christian usefulness open. It may be a rough path, or it may be a smooth path, a long path or a short path. It may be on a mount of conspicuity, or in a valley unobserved, but it is a path on which you can start with such faith and such satisfaction and such certainty that you can cry out in the face of earth and hell and heaven, "To this end was I born!" Do not wait for extraordinary qualifications. Philip the Conqueror gained his greatest victories seated on a mule, and if you wait for some capariscned Bucephalus to ride into the conflict you will never get into the wide-world fight at all. Samson slew the Lord's enemies with the jawbone of the stupidest beast created. Shamgar slew six hundred of the Lord's enemies with an ox-goad. Under God, spittle cured the blind man's eyes in the New Testament story. Take all the faculty you have and say: "O Lord! Here is what I have, Show me the field and back me up by an omnipotent power. Anywhere, anynow, any time for Thee."

Two men riding on horseback came to a trough to water the horses. While the horses were drinking one of the men said to the other a few words about the value of the soul and then they rode away, and in opposite directions.

But the words uttered were the salvation of the one to whom they were uttered, and he became the Rev. Mr. Champion, one of the most distinguished missionaries in heathen lands; for years wondering who did for him the Christian kindness, and not finding out until in a bundle of books sent him to Africa he found the biography of Brainard Taylor, and a picture of him, and the missionary recognized the face in that book as the man who, at the watering trough for horses, had said the things that saved his soul.

What opportunities you have had in the past! What opportunities you have now! What opportunities you will have in the days to come!

Put on your hat, oh woman, this afternoon, and go in and comfort that young mother who lost her babe last summer. Put on your hat, oh man, and go over and see that merchant who was compelled yesterday to make an assignment, and tell him of the everlasting riches remaining for all those who serve the Lord. Can you sing? Go and sing for that man who cannot get well, and you will help him into heaven. Let it be your brain, your tongue, your eyes, your ears, your heart, your lungs, your hands, your feet, your body, your mind, your soul, your death, your time, your eternity for God, feeling in your soul: "To this end was I born." It may be helpful to some if I recite my own experience in this regard. I started for the law without asking any divine direction. I consulted my own tastes. I liked lawyers and court rooms and judges and juries, and I reveled in hearing the Frelinghuysens and the Bradleys of the New Jersey bar, and as assistant of the county clerk, at 16 years of age, I searched titles, naturalized foreigners, recorded deeds, received the confession of judgments, swore witnesses and juries and grand juries.

But after a while I felt a call to the gospel ministry and entered it, and I felt some satisfaction in the work, but one summer, when I was resting at Sharon Springs, and while seated in the park of that village, I said to myself, "If I have an especial work to do in the world I ought to find it out now," and with that determination I prayed as I had never before prayed, and got the divine direction, and wrote it down in my memorandum book, and I saw my life-work then as plainly as I see it now. Oh do not be satisfied with general directions. Get specific directions. Do not shoot at random. Take aim and fire. Concentrate. Napoleon's success in battle came from his theory of breaking through the enemy's ranks at one point; not trying to meet the whole line of the enemy's force by a similar force. One reason why he lost Waterloo was because he did not work his usual theory, and spread his force out over a wide range.

Oh, Christian man, oh, Christian woman, break through somewhere. Not a general engagement for God, but a particular engagement, and made in answer to prayer. If there are sixteen hundred million people in the world, then there are sixteen hundred different missions to fulfill, different styles of work to do, different orbits in which to revolve, and if you do not get the divine direction there are at least fifteen hundred and ninety-nine possibilities that you will make a mistake. On your knees before God get the matter settled so that you can firmly say: "To this end I was born."

And now I come to the climacteric consideration. As near as I can tell, you were built for a happy eternity, all the disasters which have happened to your nature to be overcome by the blood of the Lamb if you will heartily accept that Christly arrangement.

We are all rejoiced at the increase in human longevity. People live, as near as I can observe, about ten years longer than they used to. The modern doctors do not bleed their patients on all occasions as did the former doctors. In those times if a man had a fever they bled him, if he had consumption they bled him, if he had rheumatism they bled him, and if they could not make out exactly what was the matter they bled him. Olden time phlebotomy was death's coadjutor.

All this has changed. From the way I see people skipping about at 80 years of age, I conclude that life insurance companies will have to change their table of risks and charge a man no more premium at 70 than they used to do when he was 60, and no more premium at 50 than when he was 40. By the advancement of medical science and the wiser acquaintance with the laws of health, and the fact that people know better how to take care of themselves, human life is prolonged.

But do you realize what, after all, is the brevity of our earthly state? In the times when people lived seven and eight hundred years, the patriarch Jacob said that his years were few. Looking at the life of the youngest person in this assembly and supposing he lived to be a nonagenarian, how short the time and soon gone, while banked up in front of us is an eternity so vast that arithmetic has no figures enough to express its length, or breadth, or depth, or height. For a happy eternity you were born unless you run yourself against the divine intentions. If standing in your presence my eye should fall upon the feebiest soul here as that soul will appear when the world lets it up, and heaven entrances it, I suppose I would be so overpowered that I should drop down as one dead.

You have examined the family Bible and explored the family records, and you have daguerrotypes of some of the kindred of previous generations, you have had photographs taken of what you were in boyhood or girlhood, and what you were ten years later, and it is very interesting to anyone to be able to look back upon the pictures of what he was 10, 20 or 30 years ago; but have you ever had a picture taken of what you may be and what you will be if you seek after God and feel the spirit's regenerating power? Where shall I plant the camera to take the picture? I plant it on this platform. I direct it toward you. Sit still or stand still while I take the picture. It shall be an instantaneous picture. There! I have it. It is done. You can see the picture in its imperfect state, and get some idea of what it will be when thoroughly developed. There is your resurrected body, so brilliant that the noonday sun is a patch of midnight compared with it. There is your soul, so pure that all the forces of diabolism could not spot it with an imperfection. There is your being, so mighty and so swift that flight from heaven to Mercury or Mars or Jupiter and back again to heaven would not weary you, and a world on each shoulder would not crush you. An eye that shall never shed a tear. An energy that shall never feel a fatigue. A brow that shall never throb with pain. You are young again, though you died of decrepitude.

You are well again though you coughed or shivered yourself into the tomb. Your every day associates are the apostles and prophets, and martyrs, and most exalted souls, masculine and feminine, of all the centuries. The archangel to you no embarrassment. God himself your present and everlasting joy. That is an instantaneous picture of what you may be, and what I am sure some of you will be. If you realize that it is an imperfect picture, my apology is what the Apostle John said: "It doth not yet appear what we shall be." "To this end was I born."

If I did not think so I would be overwhelmed with melancholy. The world does very well for a little while, eighty or a hundred or a hundred and fifty years, and I think that human longevity may yet be improved up to that prolongation, for now there is so little room between our cradle and our grave we cannot accomplish much, but who would want to dwell in this world for all eternity! Some think this earth will finally be turned into a heaven. Perhaps it may, but it would have to undergo radical repairs, and through eliminations and revolutions and transformations infinite, to make it desirable for eternal residence.

All the east winds would have to become west winds, and all the winters changed to spring tides, and the volcanoes extinguished, and the oceans chained to their beds, and the epidemics forbidden entrance, and the world so fixed up that I think it would take more to repair this old world than to make an entirely new one.

But I must say I do not care where heaven is if we can only get there, whether a gardenized America, or an emparadised Europe, or a world central to the whole universe. "To this end was I born." If each of us could say that, we would go with faces shining and hopes exhilerant amid earth's worst misfortunes and trials. Only a little while and then the rapture. Only a little while and then the reunion. Only a little while and then the transfiguration.

In the seventeenth century all Europe was threatened with a wave of Asiatic barbarism, and Vienna was especially besieged. The king and his court had fled, and nothing could save the city from being overwhelmed unless the king of Poland, John Sobieski, to whom they had sent for help, should with his army come down for the relief, and from every roof and tower the inhabitants of Vienna watched and waited and hoped until the morning of September 11 the rising sun threw an unusual and unparalleled brilliancy.

It was the reflection of the swords and shields and helmets of John Sobieski and his army coming down over the hills to the rescue, and that day, not only Vienna, but Europe was saved. And see you not, Oh ye souls, besieged with sin and sorrow, that light breaks in, the swords and thes hields and the helmets of divine rescue bathed in the rising sun of heavenly deliverance? Let everything else go rather than let heaven go. What a strange thing it must be to feel one's self born to an earthly crown, but you have been born for a throne on which you may reign after the last monarch of all the earth shall have gone to dust.

I invite you to start now for your own coronation, to come in and take the title deeds to your everlasting inheritance. Through an impassioned prayer take heaven and all of its raptures. What a poor farthing is all that this world can offer you compared with pardon here and life immortal beyond the stars, unless this side of them there be a place large enough and beautiful and grand enough for all the ransoms. Wherever it be, in what world, whether near by or far away, in this or some other constellation, hail home of light and love and blessedness! Through the atoning mercy of Christ, may we all get there!

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, of New York, the well known and successful Specialists in Chronic Diseases and Diseases of the Eye and Ear, on account of their large practice in Ohio, have established the FRANCE MEDICAL INSTITUTE, where all forms of Chronic, Nervous and Private Diseases will be successfully treated on the most Scientific principles. They are ably assisted by a full corps of eminent Physicians and Surgeons, each one being a known specialist and master in his profession.

CANCER positively cured without pain or use of the knife, by a new method.

IMPORTANT TO LADIES.—DR. FRANCE, after years of experience, has discovered the greatest cure known for all diseases peculiar to the sex. Female diseases positively cured by the new remedy, OLIVE BLOSSOM. Cure guaranteed. Cures effected by home treatment. Entirely harmless and easily applied. Consultation Free and Strictly Confidential. Correspondence promptly answered.

YOUNG MEN—Who have become victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit, which annually sweeps to an untimely grave thousands of young men of exalted talent and brilliant intellect, may call with confidence.

DRS. FRANCE AND OTTMAN, after years of experience, have discovered the greatest cure known for weakness in the back and limbs, involuntary discharges, impotency, general debility, nervousness, languor, confusion of ideas, palpitation of the heart, timidity, trembling, dimness of sight, or giddiness, diseases of the head, throat, nose, or skin, affections of the liver, lungs, stomach, or bowels—those terrible disorders arising from the solitary vice of youth—and secret practices, blighting their most radiant hopes or anticipations, rendering marriage impossible. Take one candid thought before it is too late. A week or month may place your case beyond the reach of hope. Our method of treatment will speedily and permanently restore the most obstinate case, and absolutely restore perfect manhood.

TO MIDDLE-AGED MEN.—There are many from the age of 30 to 60 who are troubled with frequent evacuations of the bladder, often accompanied by a slight burning or smarting sensation, weakening the system in a manner the patient cannot account for. On examination of the urinary deposits, a ropy sediment will be found, or the color will be a thin or milkish hue. There are many men who die of this difficulty, ignorant of the cause, which is a second stage of seminal weakness. We will guarantee a perfect cure in all such cases, and a healthy restoration of the genito-urinary organs.

DISEASES OF WOMEN.—We have a special department, thoroughly organized, and devoted exclusively to the treatment of diseases of women. Every case consulting our specialists, whether by letter or in person, is given the most careful and considerate attention. Important cases, and we get few which have not baffled the skill of all the home physicians, have the benefit of a full council of skilled specialists. In treatment of diseases peculiar to females, our success has been marked, over two-thirds of our patients being ladies, old, young, married, single, rich and poor. Our method is entirely free from objectionable features of the old system of practice, and is certain, speedy, safe. We seldom find it necessary. We prepare remedies, constitutional and local, as the case demands, and instruct ladies how to treat themselves.

MARRIAGE.—Married persons, or young men contemplating marriage, aware of physical weakness, or deficiency of the procreative powers, impotency, or any other disqualification, should call and have such cases cured. Consultation free and strictly confidential. Absolute cures guaranteed. Medicines sent free from observation to all parts of the United States.

POMEROY'S LAGRANGE ADDITION

THIS ADDITION lies—very centrally located—on Lagrange street, eleven minutes' ride from the postoffice by electric car. It has been held in an estate for many years and now is just platted to settle the same. It is as level as a floor and not a dollar is needed for grading.

THE NEIGHBORHOOD is excellent, being directly adjacent the Protestant Orphans' Home and the new St. Hebard's Church. We offer these lots at $300.00 each on terms to suit the purchaser, and will reserve the right to advance the price at any time. They will quickly double in value, and no better investment of savings can be made than in these lots.

TITLE is perfect and we furnish every buyer with an abstract. Lagrange street is paved and sewered and these lots have all the benefit from these improvements. We shall be glad to show this property at any time and give further particulars.

Plat can be found at our office.
